SYNOPSIS.

Chapter I.—The Escapade opens, not in the romance preceding the marriage of Ellen Slocum, a Puritan miss, and Lord Carrington, of England, but in their life after settling in England. The scene is placed just following the revolution, in Carrington castle in England. The Carringtons, after a house party, engaged in a family tilt, caused by jealousy.

Chapter II.—Lord Carrington and his wife each made charges of faithlessness against the other in continuation of the quarrel.

Chapter III.—First objecting against playing cards with the guests, Lady Carrington agreed to cut cards with Lord Strathgate, whose attentions to Ellen had become a sore point with Carrington. The loss of $100,000 failed to perturb her, and her husband then cut for her I. O. U. and his honor, Carrington winning. The incident closed, except that a liking for each other apparently rose between Lady Carrington and Lord Strathgate.

Chapter IV.—Additional attentions of Lord Carrington to Lady Cecilly and Lord Strathgate to Lady Carrington compelled the latter to vow that she would leave the castle.

Chapter V.—Preparing to flee, Lady Carrington and her chum, Deborah, an American girl, met Lord Strathgate at 2 a. m., he agreeing to see them safely away.

Chapter VI.—Ellen fled, Strathgate driving. He attempted to take her to his castle, but she left him stunned in the road when the carriage meets with an accident. She and Deborah then struck out for Portsmouth, where she intended to sail for America.

Chapter VII.—Hearing news of Ellen's flight, Lord Carrington and Seton set out in pursuit.

Chapter VIII.—Seton, locating a fishing village, hit the trail of Ellen and Debbie. He then rented a fast vessel and started in pursuit, Carrington pursuing Strathgate.

Chapter IX—Strathgate, bleeding from fall, dashed on to Portsmouth, for which Carrington, Elle nand Seton also were headed by different routes.

Chapter X—Strathgate arrived in Portsmouth in advance of the others, finding that Ellen's ship had sailed before her.

Chapter XI— Strathgate and Carrington each hired a small yacht to pursue the wrong vessel, upon which each supposed Ellen had sailed.

Chapter XII—Seton overtook the fugitives near Portsmouth, but his craft ran aground just as capture was imminent.

Chapter XIII—Ellen won the chase by boarding an American vessel and foiling her pursuers—Strathgate, Seton and Carrington.

Carrington and Strathgate, thrown together by the former wrecking the latter's vessel, engaged in an impromptu duel, neither being hurt.

Chapter XIV.—A war vessel, commanded by an admiral friend of Seton, then started out in pursuit of the women fugitives, Seton confessing love for Debbie.

Chapter XV.—Flagship Britannia overtook the fugitives during the night, Ellen deciding to return to Portsmouth, they boorded their small yacht, unknown to the searchers, and started out anew.

Chapter XVI.— An unsuccessful search of the merchantman is conducted.

Chapter XVII—Seton gave up the search for the escaping pair, and Strathgate and Carrington prepared for the early morning duel.

Chapter XVIII.—Debbie and Ellen located Portsmouth and safely put in to shore, arriving upon the scene of the duel just before that event took place.

Chapter XIX.—Carrington won a bloody contest at swords from Strathgate. Debbie and Ellen looking on and praying for the latter's husband.

Chapter XX.—Carrington, immediately following the duel, was placed under arrest for refusing to obey the admiral's orders, and Ellen, who had swooned during the duel, awoke to find him gone. Sir Charles Seton found the fugitives, proposed to Debbie and was accepted.

CHAPTER XXI.
The Little Man of Windsor.

There was nothing very awe inspiring in the sight of the plain, homely looking little Dutchman walking under the trees at Windsor; nor was there anything more impressive in the figure of the dumpy little woman who walked by his side, but for all that Ellen got down on her knees in the pathway as the two figures approached her. Lady Carrington's example was followed precipitately by Sir Charles and Mistress Deborah Slocum.

"Hey!" cried the little man blinking and peering at the three kneeling figures, "whom have we here?" His eye ranged from Ellen to Deborah and comprehended the baronet kneeling in the background. His dull face lighted with a glance of recognition. He knew the army list by heart and most of the officers appearing thereon, especially those of any degree of rank or station.

"Sir Charles Seton, is it not?" went on the plain little man, "and you are a captain in the Sussex light infantry. Rise, Sir Charles," he continued, gravely, "and you may present me to these ladies, your companions."

Sir Charles, glad enough to be released from his uncomfortable position, rose to his feet and stood at attention with a military salute. Then bowing profoundly, he said:

"Your majesty,"—for the little man was no less a person than King George the Third—"this is the Countess of Carrington, and this is Mistress Deborah Slocum of the—er—Massachusetts Bay Colony."

"Of the state of Massachusetts, your majesty," said Deborah, with great spirit.

"My affianced wife, your majesty," continued Seton, hastily, hoping to prevent an outbreak of wrath in his majesty's mind at Deborah's contumacy.

"Not content with stealing my colonies," said the king, kindly, but with a note of melancholy in his voice, "you Americans"—he choked a little at the word—"must now take the brave officers of my army. Rise, Mistress Slocum, and you, madam."

He extended his hand to Ellen, who was nearest to him.

Poor Ellen, who had come upon a desperate errand, to beg a great gift from the king, made no scruple about kissing the monarch's fat and pudgy hand ere she rose to her feet in obedience to the king's indication.

"Lady Carrington," continued royal George meditatively, "let me see." He knew the peerage too, did this industrious little monarch, almost as well as the army list. "Your name is Ellen, is it not?"

"Yes, your majesty."

"And you, too, are an American. I remember it all now. Lord Carrington was captured by your rebel friends. He was twice captured in Philadelphia, by you, my lady. I recall it all now," cried the king with a sprightly air, greatly delighted at his mnemonic feat. "Yes, my dear—" he turned to the stout little lady who stood quietly by his side—"you remember my telling you all about Lord Carrington's love for this lady. And now—" he stopped and looked about him vaguely.

"And now, your majesty," began poor Ellen, "his wife comes to you with a petition."

"A petition? For what?" asked the king, curiously.

"Lord Carrington is arrested, sir."

"Arrested! And for what?" asked his majesty.

"For—"

Ellen faltered.

"For disobedience of orders, sir," interposed Seton.

"How?" said the king. "'Tis a serious charge. And by whom preferred?"

"Captain Careysbrook of the Niobe, sir."

"And wherefore?"

"Lord Carrington being ordered to report aboard ship, refused to go and the ship sailed without him, sir."

"What reason had he for this disobedience?"

Little George had been a soldier himself, and he was very strict indeed on branches of military etiquette.

Sir Charles hesitated. A pious man was the king, and desperately down upon dueling. Yet the truth had to be told.

"Your majesty," he began. And then he stopped.

"Sir," cried Ellen, taking upon herself the burden, "my husband fought a duel for me."

"A duel?" asked the king, frowning.

"Yes, your majesty."

"And with whom?"

"With the earl of Strathgate, sir."

"What was the result of the duel?"

"Lord Strathgate was severely wounded, sir."

"Not killed?"

"No, your majesty."

"I'm glad of that," returned King George. "The earl of Strathgate is ill prepared to meet his Maker. Proceed, madam."

"That is all, sir. Lord Carrington was arrested immediately after for not having gone aboard the ship. You see, sir, he knew the night before when he received the orders that he would have to fight with Lord Strathgate in the morning, and he couldn't go. The fault is mine, your majesty, and therefore I humbly ask his pardon."

"Explain yourself, madam," returned the king, with a good deal of formality.

"Your majesty," began Ellen, falteringly, "I have been a very foolish woman. I ran away—with—Lord Strathgate."

"What!" exclaimed the king, his face flushing with indignation. "And you have the effrontery to come here and confess it."

"Lady Carrington does herself an injustice," again interposed Sir Charles Seton. "'Tis a long story, sir."

"Long or short," answered the king, "I must have it. How was it, Sir Charles?"

"It began at a house party at Carrington, your majesty." He hesitated and turned to Ellen. "I must make a clean breast of it," he said.

"By all means," cried the king, "conceal nothing, keep nothing back."

"Lord Carrington was ashamed of his wife, sir."

"And why?" asked the king, with a glance of admiration at Ellen, now clothed simply, but in the proper habiliments of her sex, and who certainly looked lovely enough and sweet enough for any man on earth.

"Because, sir," said Ellen, answering the direct question, "I would not gamble; I could not dance; I was ignorant of the accomplishments of the day."

"Hum!" growled the king. "Proceed, Sir Charles."

"There was a lady there who sought to encourage my Lord Carrington in his foolish and wrong estimate of his wife."

"Who was the woman?"

Sir Charles hesitated.

"I command you, sir, by your allegiance, that you tell me her name instantly."

"It was Lady Cecily Carrington, your majesty," answered Deborah, who had no scruples at all in the premises.

"The hussy!" ejaculated the queen, to whom Lady Cecily's person and reputation were equally well known.

The king raised a warning hand. Sir Charles, at a nod from his majesty, resumed his tale.

"Thinking herself betrayed, as well as despised and mocked, my lady fled by the aid of Lord Strathgate."

"But, your majesty," interposed Deborah again, with astonishing boldness, she felt quite equal to any king that walked the earth, being a free born American citizen and she wished that Elder Brewster could see how she was bearing herself now, "I went with her."

"Good!" exclaimed the king, with evident satisfaction in his voice and manner, "but pray, why did you go away with a person of Lord Strathgate's reputation?"

"Your majesty," answered Ellen, "I knew naught of it. He had been kind to me. I told him that I wanted to get to Portsmouth and take a ship for the United States. He promised to take me there, but instead started to drive us to his own estate. Mistress Slocum and I escaped from him, took a boat by the sea shore and made the best of our way to Portsmouth harbor."

"We paid for the boat we took, your majesty," interposed Deborah again.

"Well, what next?" asked the king, smiling a little at the American girl.

"Lord Strathgate pursued us to Portsmouth by shore and Lord Carrington followed him. They met. My husband knew that I had gone with Lord Strathgate. Words passed between them. There was a challenge and a week ago they fought at Blythedale hall. Mistress Slocum and I were there, and—"

"Did they fight in your presence?" interrupted the king.

"We were concealed in some bushes whither we had retreated for rest until we could arrange to continue our journey, sir."

"And you saw the duel?"

"Yes, your majesty," answered Ellen. "He fought like a hero, sir, and for me."

"Then what happened?"

"Then he was arrested and taken back to the Britannia—"

"And what next?"

"I hastened here to take the blame upon myself, sir," said Ellen, sinking again to her knees, "and to beg that you will pardon my lord and restore him to duty."

"Hath he had lesson enough, think you?"

"I'll answer for it that he has, your majesty," said Sir Charles.

"And have you had lesson enough?" demanded little George, looking down quizzically into the upturned face of the woman kneeling before him.

"Yes, your majesty," answered Ellen, "enough to last me all my life."

"Why, here's promise of a pretty reconciliation," said the king, with a rising inflection in his voice, turning to his wife.

The old woman nodded.

"Forgive him your majesty," she said kindly. "I will warrant he will not forget the experience."

Ellen did not smile. She had too much at stake. She waited in lovely appeal, tears trembling in her eyes, color wavering in her cheeks, her bosom heaving, her hands outstretched.

"I have it," said the king, at last. "Rise, madam; your husband shall suffer nothing worse than a reprimand and a fright."

"Lord Carrington is a brave man," said Ellen, "you couldn't frighten him, sir."

"Not even with the prospect of losing you?" returned the king, rather shrewdly.

"But, sir, that would break my heart. I want him pardoned that I may have him again," exclaimed the poor wife, piteously.

The king threw back his head and laughed a truly royal laugh.

"So you shall, my dear," he cried, reaching his hand up and patting her on the shoulder, for she was taller than he. "Leave it to me. My lord shall be frightened out of his wits and yet have you in the end. I shall arrange it. Sir Charles, take the ladies to Windsor. Mistress Deborah, when you marry this young soldier here, you become my subject. How likes your hot American blood that, mistress?"

"Your majesty," answered Deborah, rising to the occasion and putting for the nonce her Americanism in her pocket, utterly reckless of what Elder Brewster might think, "since you have acted with such royal generosity to Ellen—Lady Carrington and her husband I mean, I can view the prospect with equanimity."

She courtesied deeply before him as she spoke.

The king laughed again. He was in high good humor.

"Take care of her, Sir Charles. These Americans are of a rebellious breed, you know."

"Your majesty," said Ellen, "I think this will be a peaceful couple. The affair began by the reading together by the two of Baxter's 'Saints' Rest.'"

"'Tis a goodly volume, well writ, and by a learned and godly man," said the king, gravely, "and 'tis a good omen. You may kiss the queen's hand, if you will," he continued, and this was the sign manual of George's approval of the two women, for had he believed Ellen other than she was, he had never allowed her to approach his homely but beloved little wife. "Now, Sir Charles," he resumed, after the obeisances had been performed, "take the ladies to the castle and await my return. Send one of my gentlemen-in-waiting to me by the way, after you reach the castle. Ladies, I wish you good morning."

The king, like the little gentleman he was, doffed his hat gallantly to the two ladies as Sir Charles, saluting profoundly, led them away.

A great weight was taken from Ellen's heart. The king, who possessed the power of life and death over his soldiers and sailors, had promised to free her husband and restore him to her arms. Punishment, trouble, difficulty, were to intervene, but the end was certain and Ellen was content to wait.

The gentleman-in-waiting presented himself to the king, who had stood quietly under the trees talking animatedly with his wife and chuckling with pleasure at the idea that had come to him.

"The Britannia arrived in the Thames last night, did she not?"

"Yes, your majesty."

"And my message directing Admiral Kephard to present himself was transmitted?"

"Yes, your majesty."

"The admiral is at Windsor?"

"He is, your majesty."

"Bid him to come to me here under the trees. I have something to say to him."

"Yes, your majesty," returned the equerry, bowing and withdrawing rapidly.

And presently old Admiral Kephard, in full uniform, attended by Captain Beatty and Lieutenant Collier, came rolling along the walk. As the admiral and his subordinates saluted and prepared to kneel, the king motioned to them to rise. If were a cruelty to make a fat old man like Kephard, trussed up like a turkey cock in tight uniform, kneel down on the ground out in the open air.

"You need not kneel, admiral, nor you, gentlemen," said the king, extending his hand to Kephard, who bent over it and kissed it heartily with every evidence of appreciation of the king's ineffable condescension. "How do you find yourself this morning?" continued his majesty.

"Very well, your majesty," said Kephard.

"And you, Captain Beatty, and you, sir?"

The gentlemen addressed bowed profoundly.

"We are all fit for service against any of your majesty's enemies now, as always," returned Kephard, with another salute.

"I know that," said the king, kindly. "You have had a pleasant voyage?"

"Yes, your majesty."

"You brought with you on your ship a prisoner?"

"Subject to your majesty's pleasure, of course," returned Admiral Kephard.

"And what are the charges against Lord Carrington?" asked the king.

"Disobedience of orders, sir," returned the admiral.

"Hath he been tried yet?"

"Not yet, sir. A court-martial is ordered for to-morrow on the Britannia."

"And what will be the result of their deliberations?"

"He is sure to be found guilty, sir," answered Kephard, gloomily.

"Hum!" said the king. "And the punishment?"

"Suspension, degradation, dismissal, unless your majesty should be pleased to mitigate the sentence."

"And what were the circumstances of the disobedience?"

Admiral Kephard coughed and looked embarrassed.

"Out with it," said the king, bluntly.

"He stayed from his ship to—ah—fight a duel."

"How does he bear himself now?" continued the king, to Admiral Kephard's surprise.

He had expected a violent outburst from his majesty, who thoroughly disapproved of dueling.

"Gloomily, your majesty. In short, sir," the admiral burst forth, "he's been a damned—I beg your majesty's pardon, and yours, madam. 'Tis an old sailor's habit," he stammered in great confusion.

"Proceed, Kephard," said the king, smiling, "but no more of that."

"Carrington has been a fool," resumed the old warrior, flushing deeply under his tan, "he had the sweetest wife on earth and was ashamed of her and flirted with another woman who couldn't hold a candle to her, and she ran away, in her innocence getting Lord Strathgate to assist her. Strathgate's motives were—well, your majesty will understand. She escaped from him. Carrington pursued him. They fought."

"So I have been informed," said the king.

"Very well, your majesty, then there's nothing for me to do but to beg you to be merciful to the young man. I think he's heartily sick and sorry of it now, and only wants his wife. He's one of the best officers in the service, it would be a pity to degrade him, and, to tell the truth, I love the lad dearly. Won't your majesty be a little easy with him—a nominal punishment? We can't afford to overlook the affair entirely."

"Hark ye," admiral," said the king. "Gentlemen—" he turned to the other two sailors—"I commit her majesty to your tender offices. Admiral Kephard and I will have a word or two alone. Come, admiral."

The king turned as he spoke and walked out of ear shot, the admiral lumbering along in his wake. They consulted together animatedly for a few moments, the king smiling, not to say grinning, if so unroyal a word may be used about majesty. Suddenly the old admiral burst into a roar of laughter. He lifted his hand and slapped it down on his leg. For a moment the king had thought in his enthusiasm he meant to clap him on the shoulder.

The admiral bellowed out in a voice that could have been heard a half mile away in a gale of wind:

"'Fore God, your majesty, 'tis a noble idea, a royal jest!"

"Think you it will work?" said the king as he walked back to the other group.

"Excellent, in faith—"

"And you will carry it out?"

"To the very letter, sir. To-morrow, your majesty."

"And let no inkling of your purpose come to the prisoner."

"None, sir, and the lady, your majesty, what of her?"

"I reserve to myself the pleasure of telling her," returned the king.

"And have we leave to withdraw now, your majesty?" asked the admiral, as they approached the other group.

"Go, and go quickly, Kephard," said the king, extending his hand again. "I would that I could be there and see the denouement."

"But your majesty can see some of it at least," said Kephard, "if you will board the Britannia any time to-morrow, and indeed you would vastly honor us; the men would be like to die for joy at such a visit. You could at least watch the prisoner take his departure."

"I'll do it," said the king. "At what time?"

"At your majesty's convenience, of course; but the tide ebbs at 11 o'clock and that would be a suitable time for—"

The king raised his hand.

"At 11 o'clock, six bells, you call it, don't you?"

"Yes, your majesty."

"I shall be there. Don't betray me."

"By no means, your majesty," returned the admiral.

And making their salutations and obeisances to their majesties, the little party withdrew, leaving the king in high glee as he explained to his grim little consort the details of his sportive plan.

Mr. Andler, Agitated

I am sorry to have disturbed Mr. Andler's tranquility, as expressed in his communications in Friday's Democrat-Sentinel; but never mind, Mr. Andler, the contest will soon be over, the saloons closed and no more disturbing element on our streets because of the sale of booze, and then your mind will become tranquil again and you can then enjoy the happiness along with the other good citizens of the city, such as comes to every town and community where the saloon is put out of business and the joint keepers become fully convinced that the people mean to keep them out of that kind of business. Of course, as Mr. Andler intimates in his communications, when he says that Mr. Butterworth imagines that the adoption of local option laws will make it impossible for boys to get liquor, that the laws regarding the sale of intoxicating liquors will be violated, we have no doubt but he is in earnest, for men who will deal out booze for a livelihood, and men like Mr. Andler, who will uphold such traffic, knowing all the while that they are ruining homes, causing suicides, insanity and sending men and women down to an endless perdition, will not hesitate to violate laws that are intended to restrain them. Will Mr. Andler please inform us for the benefit of the whole people who these people are that he intimates are going to be violators of law and decency by selling or giving to the young men of Sedalia liquor to cause their ruin and downfall from all respectability? Surely he must have some knowledge of these people or he would hardly place himself on record before the public as he has now done, by intimating that the local option laws will be violated. Now I have no hesitancy in making the statement here and now that not a man who trains with the local option people of Sedalia will furnish this booze to the boys and young men of our city. Neither will they intentionally violate any of the laws of our city which are in restraint of the saloon, the bawdy house or gambling dens. Now, Mr. Andler says that if the writer will go into Kansas or any other prohibition community that he will see the fallacy of his conclusion. Well, it is very evident by his statement that one of two things have occurred in Mr. Andler's experience: either he has not been very far away from home during his past life, or he was blinded by prejudice. Of course we will admit that Mr. Andler may have procured booze in prohibition territory; he may have slipped into the compounding room of some drug store and thereby assisted the druggist to violate his permit to sell liquor for medicinal purposes. I do not know about that, but one thing I do know, and for Mr. Andler's information I will give it, in that I am a stranger here, only having lived here five years, coming direct here from a prohibition territory in Iowa where prohibition was in full force and effect for over twenty years, and where I was engaged in business and had occasion to know whether or not prohibition was a failure. For Mr. Andler's satisfaction of mind I will state that prohibition did not prohibit in its entirety, just as the law for stealing horses did not in the same territory prohibit horse stealing, for men who argued just like Mr. Andler does that prohibition was a failure, and that it did not prohibit, would under cover of darkness go to the express office and carry away a jug of whisky, which they had shipped from some of the distilleries in Illinois or other parts of the country. But just bear in mind, Mr. Andler, that a bill has been up before the present session of congress and will come up again at the next session and if not passed, then it will continue to come up until it becomes a law, prohibiting railroads or other means of transportation from delivering liquors and beer as well, into prohibition territory, and when that becomes a law, which it will in the very near future, then the fellows above mentioned can go to the express office in the daylight as other law abiding citizens do to transact business. Just a word about prohibition not prohibiting—that sort of stuff is manufactured by the fellows who violate the law because they like the stuff. I say emphatically and without fear of successful contradiction, that the prohibitory laws of most all of the territory where it was fully established in Iowa (some of the river towns never did establish it in its entirety, because the officers would not enforce the law) did prohibit in the same degree that any other law prohibits wrong doing. And in the territory where the writer resided for twenty years, there was only one town, and that the city of Marshalltown, Iowa, that had saloons, because the people wanted them and had a legal right to have them, under the mulct law which Iowa adopted. But for seventy-five miles in any direction from the place where I resided there was not another saloon, because the people after years of experience with high license and regulation which I hear so much about, determined they did not want any more saloons, and were much better off without them. If Mr. Andler wants to know anything more about prohibition success in prohibition territory, if he will just name a place I will meet him and take great pleasure in detailing to him the effect that prohibition had on the good people of Iowa, as it does on every community where the laws are observed. In conclusion I desire to state for the benefit of Mr. Andler's peace of mind that I am not at all disturbed about my boys, they have had some of the father training as well as the mother training which he refers to, but I fear for the boys of just such men as Mr. Andler who appear before their families as respectable heads of households, but allow other people to give their boys saloon training.

Mr. Andler seems very much worried about the awful dilemma the city will be placed in if it is deprived of the $13,500 which it receives from the saloon license. To be brief I will refer him to ex-Senator Yeater's speech at the opera house Friday evening, in which Mr. Yeater, who is not a stranger in the city as he attributes me to be, but a product of Sedalia, of whom the people who know him best are justly proud, showed to the entire satisfaction of his large audience, many of whom are the heaviest taxpayers of the city, where the revenue can be derived from to make up any deficiency caused by the closing of the saloons, without imposing any additional burden to the taxpayers. Come again, Mr. Andler; I am still at 902 South Massachusetts. Respectfully

J. L. BUTTERWORTH.

A FORMER SEDALIA BOY

IS THE HEAD OF GIGANTIC PROJECT ATTRACTING WIDE ATTENION.

WAS BORN ON FARM NEAR LAMONTE

Paul H. White, Son of Dr. and Mrs. T. E. White, of This City, Proposes to Supply Many Cities With Electric Power.

Paul H. White, son of Dr. and Mrs. T. E. White, of this city, a Pettis county boy who was born and reared on a farm near Lamonte, is the prime mover in an enterprise that is gigantic in its proportions, as will be seen by the following from a recent issue of the Indianapolis News:

In the increase of the capital stock of the Peoples' Light and Heat Co from $50,000 to $1,000,000, for which application will be made to the secretary of state within a few days, those familiar with the plans of new interests that have acquired control of the company say the first move is made in a huge scheme that will eventually mean as much for the city of Indianapolis as did cheap gas or the development of the interurban railway system. The company hopes within fifteen months to be selling to Indianapolis manufacturers electric power generated at a plant in the Vigo county coal fields at prices whereby the manufacturer may affect a saving of from 10 to 25 per cent in the cost of his power.

The project, while startling to the layman in some of its features, is simple in outline, except for the magnitude on which it will eventually be operated, and is along the line of electric power development that is now recognized by great electrical experts and engineers to be the logical end toward which modern industry is shaping. Three years ago a report was circulated among Indianapolis electrical engineers and business men that such a project was contemplated, and there was at that time some newspaper notice of the matter, but the identity of the men promoting the scheme was not at that time made known. It is now known that the present organization which has acquired possession of the People's Light and Heat Co., and is working on a larger scheme of power production, is headed by Frank M. Fauvre and Paul H. White, and that these are the same men who were back of the plans only partly understood three years ago.

Mines in Vigo County.

The new People's Light and Heat Co. has acquired the coal mines of the Fauvre Coal Co. in Vigo county, several miles west of Terre Haute. There the company proposes to locate a large central power plant, in which to generate electric power, and from which to distribute it throughout a field that is expected eventually to include all the industrial cities and towns of Central and Western Indiana and Eastern Illinois. It has been demonstrated that electric power can be transmitted on high tension lines as far as 250 miles, and this would bring within the radius of the company's activity not only the section referred to, but even cities as far removed as Chicago, St. Louis, Louisville, Evanston, Richmond, Fort Wayne and South Bend.

Mr. White, who speaks for the new plans of the People's company, says that it will not come into competition particularly with other power plants, because it will supply a commodity which they do not supply in large measure—cheap power with which to operate factories. In regard to the cost of the new power, as compared with steam power and electrical power generated in the ordinary manner, the new company says it can furnish power for a manufacturer and effect for him a saving of at least from 10 to 25 per cent. More than that, because steam plants are very often not economically operated, the saving in many cases will be more than this, running perhaps as high at times as 50 per cent. The meaning of this condition for Indianapolis, if the company's assertions can be substantiated, can be easily understood, because the company says tht this saving can be effected, even in Indianapolis, notwithstanding the fact that this city is said to have the cheapest steam coal of any large city in the country.

To Begin With 5,000 Horsepower.

The company will first, according to Mr. White, build a plant that will produce about 5,000 horsepower of electric power and deliver this on a line to run through Terre Haute, Brazil, Greencastle, Danville and Plainfield to Indianapolis. This alone, for the initial production of the company, will tap a territory with an estimated populatio nof 320,000.

In order to produce this power cheaply the company will mine its own coal, and this coal will be handled by only one man, the miner who takes it out of the ground. It will be loaded into the mine cars and they will dump into the hoppers of the huge gas producers which the company will erect. From this coal the company will manufacture "producer" gas, or ordinary comercial fuel gas, with a large amount of sulphate ammonia and a large amount of tar as by-products.

The gas manufactured will immediately be consumed by gas engines, which, in turn, will drive the immense generators, from which will come the electrical power to be sold by the company. This will be transmitted at a very high voltage on high tension wires, and will be transformed into power for ordinary comercial service at local distributing stations in the places where the power is to be sold. Sulphate ammonia has always a ready market at a good price for commercial fertilizers, and its sale, with that of the small amount of tar produced, will contribute largely to the cheap production of the company's power.

Avoidance of Many Wastes.

The method of electrical power production proposed by the new People's Light and Heat Co. has many features that commend it to the ordinary person, with a simple business sense of relative effort and cost. This method of production, electrical engineers predict, will wholly displace the present methods with a comparatively short time. It makes unnecessary the loading of coal on cars at the mines, the shipping of it by railroads, some times hundreds of miles, the unloading and complete rehandling of the coal at the consumers' end of the line, and the wasteful methods of ordinary steam production.

The latter point alone speaks very much for the practicability of the company's plans, for it is asserted for the gas engines which they propose to use that they utilize from 30 to 40 per cent of the potenital energy of the coal, as against only from 5 to 10 per cent utilized by the highest type of steam engines. Ten years ago the company's plans would not have been practicable, it is asserted, because the process of high tension electrical transmission was not then developed as it is today. The latter feature is an important one in the company's calculations and it is urged in support of the entire practicability of its plans, that the United States Steel company will equip its immense plant at Gary with gas engines burning producer gas, and producing 144,000 horsepower.

Thomas A. Edison's Prediction.

Mr. White takes much satisfaction in a statement which has come into his hands by an interviewer of Mr. Thomas A. Edison, who quoted Mr. Edison as saying: "The first great change in the production of electricity will abolish tht carrying of coal for that purpose. Instead of digging gross material out of the earth, loading it on cars and carrying it, say 500 miles, there to put it under boilers, burn it and so get power, we shall set up plants at the mouth of the mines, generate the power there and transmit it wherever it is needed by copper wires. It is preposterous to keep on putting the coal mines on wheels. It is too clumsy. It is too costly. There is no necessity for it. * * * Everything points to the fact that in the near future electricity will be produced for general consumption in great power houses at the mouths of the coal pits. That is the logical and common sense outcome of present events."

The project has its idealistic side as well as its practical and this will appeal to many. In the fact that by the methods to be employed from four to eight times as much of the potential energy of the coal is to be utilized in its consumption, as is utilized in steam production, is one that will appeal to those who are so strongly advocating the conservation of the country natural resources. The production of ammonia sulphate is also in the direction of the conservation of one of nature's greatest elements, for this product contains in its most available form nitrogen, the principal element which plant life requires, and which is being exhausted from the soil faster than it is being replaced under present methods of cultivation. The advocates of the "city beautiful" may also find comfort in the promise held out by the company, and its plan of power production and utilization, for the general adoption of such a plan for large city industries would do more for the solution of the smoke problem in large cities than all the legislation that could be enacted.

The new interests in the People's company have acquired actual possession of the plant of that company within the last month, although the fact has not been generally known. The company, besides owning the cool mines which it will use in Vigo county, has also options on large coal areas in other parts of the Indiana field, leaving a large margin for future development. The company has by its purchase of the People's plant, acquired a valuable franchise in Indianapolis, and Mr. White a few months ago acquired a franchise in Greencastle, which will be transferred to the company.

The plan of organization of the new company and its list of stockholders has not been made public, except that Mr. Fauvre will be president and Mr. White secretary and general manager. It is hoped to begin the constructio nof its plant in Vigo county this summer, and it is the company's desire to have its power line into Indianapolis within fourteen or fifteen months.

Mr. White says that the stock of the new company has practically all been subscribed.

CHURCH OF HUMANITY

TO SPREAD THE GLAD TIDINGS OF ATHEISM THROUGHOUT THE WORLD.

FIRST GENERAL ASSEMBLY MEETS

Of Course It Is Out in Kansas, Where They Have More Freaks to the Square Mile Than Anywhere Else on Earth.

Great Bend, Kas., June 6—To spread the glad tidings of atheism throughout the civilized world is the object of the founders of the Church of Humanity, who will begin their first general assembly here tomorrow.

Delegates from various parts of the country arrived today, and while the convention will be small in numbers, every part of the United States, from New York to California, will have representation.

A permanent organization will be effected and plans made for propaganda which is expected eventually to extend throughout the world.

That all deities and devils, Christian and pagan, are myths, immortality a fable and death the end of conscious life is the basic creed of the new church.

Neither do the founders present these statements as theories, but declare that they are proven facts capable of scientific demonstration.

While there have been national organizations of freethinkers in this country, this is the first attempt to found a national society along purely atheistic lines, as all previous organizations have been composed largely of agnostics, deists, pantheists and spiritualists.

Voltaire, Paine and Ingersoll, the patron saints of all former freethinking societies, have been discarded as false leaders and hopelessly behind the times through their lack of the knowledge now revealed that "God is a myth like Santa Claus."

W. H. Kerr, a wealthy retired farmer of this city, is the principal spirit in the Church of Humanity and for years has devoted himself almost exclusively to the spread of his propaganda through papers and books, in an attempt, as he says, "to rescue the people from the idolatry and superstition of the churches."

To accomplish this end, he hopes to secure the establishment of schools and colleges for the education of lecturers and teachers, who will spread atheism throughout the world.

The prophet of the new church and the revelator of its doctrines of atheism is 53 years of age. He comes of the sturdy stock of pioneers and is a sound-mineded business man, with none of the freakish manifestations or affectations usually possessed by the founder of a new religious movement.

Born in Illinois, he settled in this section of Kansas in 1874 and took a claim. Thrift and industry rapidly added to his acres, which he farmed with the aid of his six children, one boy and five girls, all of whom accept their father's religious views.

It was while he was engaged in the cultivation of his hundreds of acres of Kansas prairie that he made the "discovery" that gods are myths, and answered in the negative the age-old question, "If a man die, shall he live again?"

In his communions with nature, unaided by books, he learned to attribute all natural phenomena to natural causes. Convinced that all religions are vain superstitions and a curse to the peoples of the world, he came to Great Bend in 1902 and began the propaganda work that has resulted in the call for tomorrow's organization meeting of the Church of Humanity.

"As soon as the church is formally organized and incorporated by its charter members," said Mr. Kerr, "lecturers and organizers will be put in the field, and branch churches will be incorporated by the national society wherever a few members can be secured.

The best methods used by idolaters will be used in propagating the great truths of the church. We will let 'truth and error grapple,' and we know that truth will win, if given the same financial support that error has had for thousands of years."

WIFE OF A MILLIONAIRE

MRS. BARTON HALL, JR., REPORTED TO BE MISSING IN THE METROPOLIS.

AND A MINISTER IS ALSO ABSENT

Many Purchases Were Made By the Missing Woman Just After She Left Home, According to a Dispatch.

New York, June 6.—E. Barton Hall, jr., son of the multi-millionaire, whose residence is regarded one of the finest on Long Island sound, made an official report Friday to the police of the strange disappearance of his beautiful wife, and also employed private detectives to endeavor to trace her.

Mr. Hall also stated that he had been unable to gain definite news of the present location of the Rev. B. Q. Denham, who recently returned to New York to resume the pastorate of the First Church of the Disciples of Christ in West Fifty-sixth street. Mr. and Mrs. Hall attended the Rev. Dr. Denham's church. When seen Mr. Hall said:

"I cannot help believing that my wife must have become deranged, yet the last time I saw her she appeared in good health.

"One thing I have found out today is that immediately after leaving me she made a great many purchases at the stores in New York. The bills have been coming in today, and they are enough to assure me that she cannot be in any want.

"On the other hand, her last note sent to me was so silly there must be something wrong. She wrote about going to work and being anxious to earn her own living. That, of course is foolish. She had everything here that she could desire. In addition, she had an independent income. Everything about her disappearance is a complete mystery to me."

Friends of the Rev. Mr. Denham declared that they believed Mr. Denham had gone south to look after some business interests.

How to Cure Skin Diseases.

Eczema, pimples, dandruff and itching skin diseases are of local origin and are caused by germs. In order to cure these diseases the germs and their poisons must be driven to the surface of the skin and destroyed. Salves and greasy lotions may give temporary relief, but they do not destroy the germs that cause the disease. A St. Louis chemist has discovered a clean vegetable liquid remedy that will draw the germs and their poisons to the surface of the skin and destroy them, leaving a nice, clear, healthy skin. This remedy is known as Zemo, and by its many remarkable cures has attracted the attention of the leading scientists and skin specialists of this country and Europe.

Zemo has been given the most cordial reception by the public of any similar remedy ever produced, and it is recognized as an honest medicine that makes honest cures.

Zemo is for sale everywhere. You can obtain a trial package free by writing to the E. W. Rose Medicine Co., St. Louis, Mo.

Mr. Dan Wilcox, druggist at 104 West Main street, has secured the agency for Zemo in Sedalia and will gladly show you proof of some of the wonderful cures made by this remarkable remedy.

Central Business College Items.

School is keeping up remarkably well for the warm weather. Almost as many pupils in attendance as there were during the winter months. A large number are passing out into good positions, but their places are filled almost as rapidly as they pass out, by new pupils entering. Teachers and high school pupils who desire to put in their summer months to good advantage are entering every week. The pupils highly appreciate the night school through the entire year. Saturday forenoon school, and the privilege of working in the school room any time from 7 o'clock in the morning till 9 o'clock at night, six days in the week.

Regular school begins at 8 o'clock in the morning and by the time other schools begin at 9, our pupils have put in an hour of solid work in the coolest part of the day.

We invite all who wish to attend a business college to visit our school and it will not take them long to decide where they can get the best advantages.

There can be no question about the kind of paint you want to use. The only question is, where can this kind be had?

HUGHES CRESCENT COTTAGE PAINT has been sold by this store for the last twelve to fifteen years. Has saved others money, will do the same for you.

We know that a more reliable paint cannot be had, that no other brand can surpass it in covering capacity. Few, if any, will hold their colors so long, and, figured by years and square yards, it is the cheapest you can get.

We guarantee Crescent Cottage Paint for five years (about double the life of most paints), and in many cases repainting is not required for eight and ten years. Remember we are headquarters for everything in the paint line.

WANTED PLACE TO SLEEP

Man Tries to Enter Caboose and Is Captured by the Conductor.

D. C. Walker, of Sedalia, a conductor on the Sedalia division of the Katy, was awakened Wednesday night by some one trying to enter his caboose, in which he sleeps while at this end of the road, says the Parsons Eclipse.

He got up and captured the intruder, whom he took to the depot and turned over to the special officer on duty there.

For some reason he was turned loose and yesterday morning Walker appeared in Justice Scott's court and had a "John Doe" warrant issued for his arrest.

The warrant was given to Deputy Constable Peak, who arrested the supposed burglar and brought him before Judge Scott.

He turned out to be a mere boy who was in search of a place to sleep and had attempted to enter the caboose for that purpose. He was released.

GOING TO HARVEST FIELDS

The College Student and the Hobo Will Be Utilized.

Wichita, Kas., June 6.—As a result of the recent call for help in harvesting the Kansas wheat crop, men are flocking into Southern Kansas in droves and it is likely that the farmers will have plenty of assistance in saving the crop.

Harvesting in Southern Kansas and Northern Oklahoma will probably begin in earnest next week, and the harvest hands will gradually work northward. In Central and Western Kansas the harvesting will begin about the middle of the month, and in Northern Kansas and Nebraska the waving fields will begin to fall before the reapers early in July.

The gathering of the harvest clans is highly picturesque, as usual, and includes men in all walks of life, from the hobo who is pressed into service to the college student who is "out for a lark" or who "needs the money."

A ROMANTIC COURTSHIP

HAD ITS CULMINATION IN NEW YORK AT HIGH NOON ON SATURDAY.

BRIDE WAS A WIDOW WITH PLENTY

Joseph Howland Hunt, a Prominent Architect, Weds Mrs. Mazie Nadine La Shelle, a Talented Woman.

New York, June 6.—A romantic courtship had its culmination today in the wedding of Mrs. Mazie Nadine La Shelle, widow of Kirk La Shelle, author, playwright and theatrical manager, and Joseph Howland Hunt, a prominent architect of New York.

The ceremony was performed at the country house of Mr. and Mrs. Frank A. Vanderlip, the former a lifelong friend of the bride's first husband and one of the pallbearers at his funeral. La Shelle, who first produced "Arizona," left his widow a fortune of about $100,000.

Mr. Hunt is a well-known young bachelor and has served as best man at many of the fashionable weddings. He is a son of the late Richard Morris Hunt, the architect, and of Mrs. Hunt, who was Miss Catharine Howland. He is an architect, was graduated from Harvard in 1892 and from Columbia in 1896, and is a member of the University, the Players, and Racquet and Tennis clubs.

The bride was formerly Miss Mazie E. Nadine and her marriage to Kirk La Shelle took place on June 15, 1893. Mr. La Shelle, who held various newspaper positions and wrote "The Ameer" and "The Princess Chic," light operas, and also collaborated on a number of plays, died three years ago.

Mrs. La Shelle is a handsome young woman, highly cultured, and has unusually agreeable manners. She has a country home at Bellport, L. I., where she has lived several years, though she has also been abroad a part of every year.

The Care of the Hair.

Every woman and every man desires beautiful hair. And everyone may have it if they will but give it proper care and attention.

The first and all important step toward the prevention of baldness and grayness and toward promoting a luxuriant growth of fine, silken hair is to keep the scalp sweet and clean and free from dandruff.

All kinds of advice have, from time to time, been offered for the removal of dandruff, and for the promotion of hair growth; some bad, some good.

There is, however, one safe, sure and economical way. That is to use Harfina Soap, Medicated, and Hay's Hairhealth.

Harfina Soap is absolutely the purest and most satisfactory soap made for every purpose of the bath, toilet, nursery, complexion and hair. It is highly medicated, deodorizing, antiseptic, germicidal and delightfully fragrant. "A Breath of Pine Balsam in every Cake."

Harfina cleanses the scalp, stops itching and all irritation. Destroys all disease parasites, and is the only soap that should be used in connection with Hairhealth.

Hairhealth "Keeps You Looking Young." It positively removes dandruff and always restores gray and faded hair to its youthful color and beauty, no matter how long it has been gray or faded or what its original color.

It is not a dye, promotes a fine growth of luxuriant hair when all other remedies fail. Is not greasy or sticky, and does not soil skin or linen.

You can get large 25c cakes of Harfina Soap and large 50c bottles of Hairhealth of any druggist, or they will be sent, prepaid, on receipt of price by Philo Hay Specialties Co., 20-32 Clinton street, Newark, N. J.

TWO OFFICERS KILLED

In a Pitched Battle With Negroes in Oklahoma.

Oklahoma City, June 6.—Sheriff George Garrison, of Oklahoma City, and Deputy Sheriff Smith, of Watonga, were shot and killed and a negro wounded in a pitched battle with seven negroes three miles west of Hitchcock, Ok., last evening. As a result a race riot is feared.

A special train with 200 armed men left this city for the scene, and the negroes will be taken, dead or alive.

According to reports received in Oklahoma City, seven negroes were in the party that opened fire on the sheriff when he attempted to arrest Alf Hunter, alias James Kingsbury, who killed Susie Pride and wounded two other persons, in Oklahoma City, May 1.

UNITED STATES COURT OF CLAIMS

The Publishers of Webster's International Dictionary allege that it "is, in fact, the popular Unabridged thoroughly re-edited in every detail, and vastly enriched in every part, with the purpose of adapting it to meet the larger and severer requirements of another generation."

We are of the opinion that this allegation most clearly and accurately describes the work that has been accomplished and the result that has been reached. The Dictionary, as it now stands, has been thoroughly re-edited in every detail, has been corrected in every part, and is admirably adapted to meet the larger and severer requirements of a generation which demands more of popular philological knowledge than any generation that the world has ever contained.

It is perhaps needless to add that we refer to the dictionary in our judicial work as of the highest authority in accuracy of definition; and that in the future as in the past it will be the source of constant reference.

THE LIFE OF WIFE SAVED

BLOOD COURSES FROM ARM OF HUSBAND INTO THAT OF SPOUSE.

FORMER WATCHES THE FLUID FLOW

Young Giant Becomes Pale and Weak While She Regains Color and Strength From Man's Sacrifice in New York.

New York, June 6.—Josephine Marasco, a bride of only nine months, and her young husband, Dominick, with whom she fled to this country from her home in Italy when her parents objected to her marriage, are in Washington Heights hospital. He is recovering from the weakness occasioned by the loss of a great quantity of blood which he allowed to be transfused from his veins into his wife's; she is on the highway to health because of her husband's sacrifice

Before the operation was performed doctors at the hospital had given up all hope of saving the young matron's life.

Mrs. Marasco was carried to the hospital from her home at No. 2484 Amsterdam avenue suffering from internal hemorrhages. Dominick followed the ambulance. Dr. C. C. Sichel told the young husband as gently as possible that his wife's death was only a question of hours.

"She simply has no more blood," explained the physician. "Her veins have been drained to almost the last drop, and her heart cannot continue much longer."

"Couldn't you take my blood?" demanded the eager husband. "She can have it all." And Dominick threw off his jacket and, rolling up his sleeve, exhibited a mighty arm.

Dr. Sichel gazed at Dominick's muscles in admiration and consented to try the operation. Marasco was put to bed and prepared for the ordeal.

The young husband was seated in a chair beside his wife and his left arm was bared to the elbow. The doctors wished to put him under an anaesthetic, but he refused to take it, saying that he wanted to see the effect of the operation.

Dr. Newult made an incision in the main artery of his left arm. At the same time Dr. Sichel made a similar incision in Mrs. Marasco's arm, and Dr. Quittner quickly slipped a three-inch glass tube into the wounds, connecting the arms of husband and wife so that about an inch of glass remained visible.

Instantly the clear glass filled with blood which began flowing from Dominick's arm into that of his wife. For ten minutes the flow of blood was allowed to continue.

Slowly the color which had faded from Mrs. Marasco's face returned to her cheeks until they were actually rosy. Her pulse gained strength and her breathing became easier and stronger. As his wife gained, however, Dominick slowly lost his strength. His lips, compressed together tightly, turned slowly from a rich red to an ashen color. The color left his cheeks and the perspiration started from his face. The doctors watched him carefully as he grew weaker, moment by moment.

At the same instant Mrs. Marasco's eyelids quivered and she half opened her eyes. Quickly the doctors drew out the tube. As the last dressing was applied the young Italian glanced toward his young wife, smiled happily at the evidence of returning strength in her, and then suddenly collapsed.

Mrs. Marasco's condition was so much improved by the operation that the surgeons said last night they were almost certain of her recovery. When Dominick takes her back to her Amsterdam avenue flat they hope that there may be three in the family.

THANKFUL PEOPLE

They Are Found in Every Part of Sedalia.

Many citizens of Sedalia have good reason to be thankful for burdens lifted from aching backs, which they bore patiently for years. Scores tell about their experience publicly. Here is a case of it:

J. G. Riley, baker, of 114 East Fourth street, Sedalia, Mo., says: "I have been recommending Doan's Kidney Pills for over five years, and it has always given me pleasure to do so. I first procured this remedy at the W. E. Bard Drug Co.'s in 1901, and the relief I received from its use was most gratifying. My occupation is very hard on the back, and caused me at times to suffer severely from backache. I have had some light attacks of the trouble since using Doan's Kidney Pills, but an appeal to their use has always given me quick relief. I have no hesitancy in recommending them to those suffering from kidney complaint."

For sale by all dealers. Price 50c. Foster-Milburn Co., Buffalo, N. Y., sole agents for the United States.

THEY SOLD MUCH BOOZE

FOUR OF THE SIX DRUG STORES IN COLUMBIA DURING THE MONTH OF MAY.

TWO MORE ARE YET TO HEAR FROM

Filed 1,483 Whisky Prescriptions, Showing That John Barleycorn Is Great Cure-All These "Dry" Times.

The 1,483 prescriptions for whisky for the month of May filed by four out of the six drug stores in Columbia which have government licenses to sell liquor indicate the astonishing amount of sickness that is prevailing in Columbia since the town went "dry," says the Columbia Tribune of Friday afternoon.

The firms that have filed are Gilman & Dorsey, P. D. Prather, J. E. Gillaspie and Tilley's Pharmacy. Heibel & Penn and the Swastika drug store have not yet filed, having until the end of the week to do so.

The law provides that drug stores shall file with the county clerk some time during the first week in every month the prescriptions for whisky filled the month preceding.

Some of those who have obtained prescriptions have been ill as high as eight or ten times. Notwithstanding the prevalent sickness, the mortality rate has not increased and the undertakers report no increase in business.

The prescriptions vary in amount from one pint to a half gallon. There are few half pints called for and the average is a pint. From this is will be seen that heroic treatment was required by practically all the sufferers.

One drug store issued 364, one 325, another 110 and still another 684. Those curious enough may calculate the amount of whisky that has been consumed for a "necessary remedy" in Columbia during the 31 days in May.

This amount includes only what was disposed of by four of the six drug stores and takes no account of the beer and other liquid refreshments shipped into Columbia for libating purposes during the last May time.

A drug store legally has the right to fill all the whisky prescriptions brought in signed by physicians in good standing. The law presumes that a doctor knows what physic his patient needs, and when a prescription is presented with the "necessary remedy" as an open sesame the druggist is not warranted in refusing to fill it.

The state board of health may inquire into the matter and is empowered to revoke the license of any physician whom it thinks is exceeding his legal rights in issuing whisky prescriptions.

There are three or four Columbia physicians, however, who were practicing before the state board was created and over these the board has no jurisdiction. The supreme court held recently that over these that body has no jurisdiction, since it issued them no license and accordingly was powerless to take away something it did not give. These doctors, it seems, can issue prescriptions ad libitum so long as they stay within the "necessary remedy" requirements.

MAN LIVES 35 YEARS IN CAGE

Clothed as Little Girl He Is Taken to County Farm.

Sioux City, Ia., June 6.—After living thirty-five years in a wire cage, playing with children's toys and garbed as a little girl in knee-length skirts, Christian Gelt, aged 40 years, yesterday was removed to the county poor farm.

The case is one of the most pitiful ever encountered by an Iowa insanity commission. All his life the man has been cared for by his brother, Ole Gelt, a working man, who did the best he could to maintain his brother and keep him from becoming a public charge.

Gelt's appearance is uncanny. Dwarfed and with muscle and tissue shriveled up from lack of exercise, with complexion yellow from lack of exposure to the sun, the man bears more resemblance to a strange animal than a human being.

MISS CLAY TO WED JUNE 23

Fiance Former Special Indian Agent of Interior Department.

Mexico, Mo., June 6.—Invitations are out for the wedding of Miss Janie Clay, of Mexico, to James W. Zevely, of Muskogee, Ok., Tuesday, June 23, at St. Paul's Episcopal church here. A reception will be held at the home of the bride's parents, Col. and Mrs. Green Clay, after the ceremony.

Miss Clay is a member of a prominent Missouri family, her father having served several terms in the state senate.

During the administration of Governor Francis, Mr. Zevely was made state librarian, and when the governor became secretary of the interior he named Mr. Zevely special agent of the department in Indian territory, a position he held under Secretaries Bliss and Noble. He later began the practice of law in Muskogee and is interested in many enterprises in the new state.

SEDALIA OUR HOME

The Overwhelming Majority of Our Business Men and Our Working Men Will

Stand Up For Sedalia!

On the Eleventh of June

The prohibitionists say in the Capital of June 5th: "We call attention to the overwhelming majority of leading business men of Sedalia whose signatures the so-called Manufacturers', Merchants' and Professional Men's Ass'n failed to get to their statement that Sedalia's prosperity depends upon the saloons, which according to their own conservative estimate, are supported by the community at a cost of $1,400,000.00 every four years."

There were seventeen signatures to the statement referred to by the prohibitionists. Seventeen representative men in their various lines of business. Seventeen is not a majority of the business men of Sedalia. These seventeen were selected because they are all well known citizens, who live here and who expect to live here in the future. Their homes are here and their businesses are here. Their welfare depends upon the welfare of Sedalia.

It is not likely that they would advocate a policy which they believed to be destructive to the interests of the city, and thereby destructive to their own interests. In view of the insidious efforts of the dry contingent to coerce public opinion through personal threats of boycott and social ostracism, these seventeen men are to be congratulated for their display of moral courage. There are more than a hundred names on the roster of this association of men who endorse the stand taken by the seventeen.

Mark, they resent the insult offered by the seventeen to themselves. The seventeen, individually and collectively, are probably as much to be thanked for the fair name of our city as any other seventeen citizens within her borders.

Mark, that at one time our city is a hot bed of vice.
Drunkenness, prostitution and vice run riot.
Women and children are not safe from attack.
We are in a community of law breakers; crime and debauchery walk hand in hand.
At another time, in a twinkling, our city is thrown into a paradise.
She is the queen of the prairies.
She has a fair name.
Her achievements are proudly sung.
By the caprice of the prohibitionists we are a city of sinners, or a city of saints.
In accordance with what they wish to prove at the moment.

No slander is too vile and no praise too fulsome to be used for the moment, to bolster up any absurdity which may seem of importance to them.

On the other hand we call attention to the vast majority of our citizens, not only in the business world, but also in the ranks of labor, who have not declared for prohibition.

And in calling attention to this vast majority, although this association is composed of employers of labor, we recognize that the interests of Sedalia, financial and moral, rest, in the last analysis, upon the welfare of that large majority of our citizenship, the working class.

We deny the implications of the drys that the majority of our working men are the victims of strong drink—that every boy is in danger of becoming a drunkard—that every girl is in danger of marrying a drunkard.

We refute these base imputations as an insult to our citizenship at large.

We denounce their frequent assertion that any man who will vote for the sale of liquor is a criminal at heart,

We condemn the propogation of this sentiment among our children—holding their fathers up to them as criminals.

We have met argument with argument and propose to do so.

Heretofore we have been silent in the face of slander and contumely, but persecution must stop.

There is a great principle involved in this fight.

That principle is opposition to sumptuary law.

It is as old as government itself.

We shall prosecute this campaign to the end on the lines laid down.

We shall continue to appeal to the conscience and the reason of the voters of Sedalia.

We shall leave our cause with the voters with no fear of the result.

A LITTLE BOY'S BIRTHDAY

He Entertained Twenty Friends in Honor of the Occasion.

Master Ray Warner celebrated the tenth anniversary of his birth Thursday, June 4th, from 2 to 5 o'clock at his home, 1011 East Fourth street.

About twenty of his little friends were present and passed the afternoon with music and games, one being a contest to pin a tie on "Buster Brown," May Hannafield winning the first prize, a Japanese dish, and Elizabeth Miller the second prize, a pin tray.

Refreshments of cake, fruit salad, candies and nuts were served.

Master Ray received a number of nice presents, and at 5 o'clock the little guests departed, after having spent a very enjoyable afternoon. Those present were:

Ethel Lister, Livonia Ingram, Georgia Lucile Mosburg, Blanche Niles, Frances Niles, May Niles, Frances Hannafield, May Hannafield, Elizabeth Miller, Jessie May Kaylor, Eddie Mosburg, Eugene Mosburg, Charles Maroney, Clarence Carter, Jesse Miller, Ray Warner, Max McCann, Oscar Moore, Mrs. Kate White, Mrs. George Lister.

MAYOR WEDS SECRETLY

FRED A. BUSSE AND JOSEPHINE LEE MARRIED IN HIS OFFICE IN CHICAGO.

SHE IS THE DAUGHTER OF AN ARTIST

Executive Wanted Secrecy Because He Was 42 and a Bachelor—Mayor's Mother and Sister Kept in Ignorance.

Chicago, June 6.—Mayor Fred A. Busse married Miss Josephine Lee April 29 at 10 a. m. in his office in the city hall, according toinformation from indisputable sources. Judge Theo. Brentano performed the ceremony.

There were only five persons present and these were the mayor's guests at a wedding breakfast immediately afterward at the Bismarck restaurant. Unusual steps were taken to keep it secret and even the mayor's mother and sister have not known and will not until they shall have seen this account of it in the papers.

The bride has lived at the Plaza since the ceremony, which hostelry has been her home since last summer. She is the dauhter of an artist, but has been parted from her father for a year. Her mother is dead, and she has had sole charge of two younger sisters. She and the mayor have known each other for seven years.

The desire of the mayor for secrecy concerning the marriage was said to be due to the fact that he has lived for 42 years a bachelor. He realized, according to his friends, that the news must become public soon, and even intended taking his bride to live with him at his home, at 391 Sebgewick street, within a week or 10 days, but still he insisted on the keeping of the secret.

So a means of issuing a marriage license without making the fact public was devised.

STALE EGGS HIT WOMEN

Passengers on Iron Mountain Train Bombarded at Fordyce, Ill.

Murphysboro, Ill., June 6.—Three Murphysboro women were targets for a volley of stale eggs hurled at them as they were getting on the St. Louis accommodation of the Iron Mountain railway at Fordyce, to come to Murphysboro last night.

A claim agent of the railway stuck his head out of a window to see what was going on and three eggs hit him.

Railway detectives are investigating the case. No one appears to know what prompted the egg throwers.

Better Than Spanking.

Spanking does not cure children of bed wetting. There is a constitutional cause for this trouble. Mrs. M. Summers, Box W, Notre Dame, Ind., will send free to any mother her successful home treatment, with full instructions. Send no money, but write to her today if your children trouble you in this way. Don't blame the child, the chances are it can't help it. This treatment also cures adults and aged people troubled with urine difficulties by day or night.

WHITE GIRL WEDS NEGRO

Eloped to Washington and Married By a Negro.

Baltimore, Md., June 6.—Miss Dorothy Niner, a pretty white girl of 17 years, and Alonzo D. Holmes, a negro, who is employed as a porter in a department store, have returned to Baltimore as man and wife, the couple having eloped to Washington, where they were married by a negro minister. How the girl met and was courted by the negro is a mystery.

The bride is the youngest of a family of six children. She lived with her father and mother at No. 33 North Gilmore street, a respectable neighborhood.

When one of the girl's sisters heard of the wedding she fainted and could not be revived for an hour. Both brothers have been out looking for the negro. The children fear to tell the father of what has taken place.

Little Boy Bitten by a Dog.

The 8-year-old son of J. R. Caldwell, who resides about three miles northwest of this city, was bitten by their dog a few days ago, says the Green Ridge Local News. While it was not thought the dog was mad, to be on the safe side, Mr. Caldwell took the boy to Nevada and had a madstone applied. The stone did not adhere, and they are greatly relieved that no serious results are likely to follow.

HAS STEPHENS SWITCHED?

This Story Sent Out From the Capital of the State.

Jefferson City, June 6.—Ex-Gov. Lon V. Stephens, of St. Louis, was closeted with Gov. Folk Friday discussing the political outlook in Missouri.

While neither the governor nor Mr. Stephens would talk about their meeting, it is understood to have been a peace conference, for soon after the governor announced for senator the former governor announced that while he would not speak to Stone if he were to meet him on the street, he was going to be for him for United States senator.

The conference Friday with Governor Folk is taken as an indication that Stephens has had a change of heart since the state convention, when Stone's friends threw ex-Gov. Stephens overboard for Francis.

COLLEGE 125 YEARS OLD

ALUMNI OF "DICKINSON" GATHERING AT CARLISLE FOR CELEBRATION.

HAVE BEEN PREPARING FOR A YEAR

School Furnished Many Illustrious American Citizens—It Has Now Reached Its Highest Prosperity.

Carlisle, Pa., June 6.—Alumni of Dickinson college are gathering in Carlisle today from the four corners of the earth to participate in the celebration of the 125th anniversary of the establishment of the institution.

The exercises will begin tomorrow and will continue through four days. Among the speakers will be men of international fame, who look upon the venerable college as their alma mater. The work of preparation for the celebration has been under way for a year.

Most of the leading universities and colleges of the east will be officially represented at Dickinson's celebration by their presidents, chancellors, or some distinguished alumnus.

President George Edward Reed has selected ex-Secretary of the Treasury Leslie M. Shaw as principal orator of the occasion.

So extensive are the preparations being made for the 125th anniversary that outside of the numerous halls and buildings composing Dickinson college proper, the college authorities have rented the large National Guard armory and Carlisle opera house for special exercises.

This celebration is expected to be not only the crowning event in the career of Dickinson college, which has furnished so many illustrious American citizens, but has been given a somewhat civic aspect by the enthusiasm of Carlisle people, to whom it will be an opportunity for a celebration in honor of Carlisle's fame as a centure of culture.

Dickinson college is the eleventh of the earliest colleges founded in the United States. Its foundation was laid in 1783 by John Dickinson, a member of the Colonial Congress which framed the Declaration of Independence, and afterwards governor of New Jersey.

It belongs to the class of small colleges, though its students number over five hundred. It is asserted by an alumnus who has made a study of the subject that Dickinson, in proportion to its numbers, has had as many graduates who attained distinction as any other American college. Under the present president, the Rev. George E. Reed, who has been at the helm for about fifteen years, the college has reached its highest prosperity.

BEEN WED THREE YEARS

CROWN PRINCE FREDERICK WILLIAM AND THE PRINCESS CECILLE.

MUCH REJOICING AMONG GERMANS

Prince William the Most Democratic Scion That Germany Ever Had, Hence Is Popular With All the People.

Berlin, June 6.—Crown Prince Frederick William, heir apparent to the throne of the Hohenzollerns, and Princess Cecilie were married three years ago today, and the anniversary has been made the occasion of much rejoicing among the German people.

The crown prince and princess and their two little boys are great favorites in the land of the kaiser. Prince William is the most democratic scion that Germany has ever had. He is popular among all classes and even some of the social democrats are among his intimates. When his royal father once protested against his association with the socialists, William replied:

"The day will come when the social democrats will be accustomed to come to court, and I had best make friends with them."

The marriage which took place on June 6, 1905, was purely an affair of the heart. While the German royal schatchens were canvasing the merits and demerits of every marriageable princess in Europe, William proceeded to fall desperately in love with the daughter of the Russian Duchess of Mecklenburg-Schwerin. He did not wait for the very deliberate and ceremonious preliminaries, which lead up to a royal marriage, but it was all arranged between the young folks long before the state machinery was set in motion.

"How do you know that you can marry our Cecilie—that they will permit you to marry her?" demanded the prudent woman whom he had invited to become his mother-in-law.

"I shall never marry anybody else," the impetuous lover declared.

When it came to the test there was no serious objection to the princes's choice. Although the Mecklenburgs were scarcely on a political level with the Hohenzollerns, they were up to the requirements in nearly every other respect, and the Prussian family had quite enough prestige for both. In marrying within the confederation there would be no political danger, and it was also a relief to German sentiment that no English woman would become first lady of the empire.

At the beginning of the present year, Prince William went to work as a government clerk.

At the instigation of the kaiser, he entered the Prussian department of the interior to be given an exhaustive course of training in the science of civil government. In order to this, he was granted a year's leave from the army, in which he had risen to the rank of major in the Cuirassier guards.

Those who are in charge of the department report that the young man is proving himself to be both diligent and capable. He asks and is given no immunity from the ordinary routine of the office and already he holds the record for punctual attendance at the dismal old ministry building in Unter den Linden.

He appears to have brought to his new occupation the same enthusiasm and sense of duty that have always characterized his doings of every description.

It is the first time on record that a Prussian prince has been excused from military service for so long a time in order to engage in purely civilian duties.

BORDER HOLDUP IN THE EAST

Two Masked Horsemen Shoot Up Coal Town After $400 Theft.

Pittsburg, June 6.—Following the recent holding up and robbery of a Pennsylvania express train and a street car, this vicinity was treated to a third wild western affair early yesterday, when two men, masked, heavily armed, and riding horseback, smashed the window of the Monongahela Consolidated Coal and Coke company's general store at Boston, a mining town nearby, appropriated articles valued at $400, and galloped away, firing revolvers.

At the same place, several weeks ago two masked men held up a street car at the point of revolvers and robbed eleven passengers and the crew. Many persons started this morning in pursuit of the thieves, but without result.

TEN MILLIONS TO GIVE

TO AID TWENTY THOUSAND PERSONS IS A NEW MILLIONAIRE'S AIM.

ANY SEDALIAN IN NEED OF HELP?

C. W. Averill Intends to Help Good and Bad Alike—Go About It Systematically—Expects to Be Fooled.

Los Angeles, Cal., June 6.—C. W. Averill, who recently inherited ten million dollars from an aunt in Massachusetts, declares he is going to make 20,000 or more persons happy.

After a visit to his old home in Farmington, Me., he will establish headquarters in a big city, perhaps Chicago, where he says all who need help, and deserve it, can find it.

"I am not going to be a fool about this," he said today, "but if being a fool is being deceived occasionally, all right. I have succeeded in piling up a few hundred thousands by my own exertions, but I can never spend the income of ten million dollars.

"If a man has $500 and needs as much more to carry out his plans and make him a success and thereby happy, I purpose to give the added 500.

"Another thing, I am going to help bad persons as well as good. The good the churches and respectable folks care for but the bad have no one but the devil and the police.

"I wish to help the intemperate, the convict, the girl who has to hang her head, the man who has made a failure of himself. Lots of us cannot resist temptation, you know.

"I have set the number I will aid at 20,000, but if I succeed in helping them I will look for 20,000 more. I suppose my headquarters will be in New York or Chicago, because I can reach further from either of those places than any other."

THE "DIRECTOIRE" GOWN

GIVES AN EXCELLENT OPPORTUNITY FOR THE STUDY OF ANATOMY.

GLENN GUERNSEY SEES GARMENT

The Latest Gossip in Regard to the Early Marriage of Prince De Sagan and Mme. Gould, of New York City.

BY GLENN GUERNSEY.

New York, May 6.—Men and brethren, we have been deceived. We have been shocked, scandalized and outraged in our tenderest sensibilities and wholly without cause.

It is all due to the threatened invasion of the directoire gown. For weeks the papers have been full of descriptions of this garment. In the fast mail cables to the New York journals, it was alleged that the revival of this feminine costume had shocked even the French capital and given the blase Parisites of the boulevard the blind staggers.

I need not recount with what mixed feelings of terror and alarm the male population received the news that the directoire gown was to invade New York and flaunt its shamelessness before all Broadway. Strong men wept at the tidings and many a heartfelt prayer was uttered, I hope, that this degredation might be denied us.

Men and brethren, I repeat, we have been deceived. With my own eyes I have seen it, gracefully displayed on a model in the windows of a he-modiste's shop on the avenue—an exact duplicate of one of the most daring of the directoire gowns of the feminine Parisites. Our alarm was needless. There is nothing to it. Rather, I should say, there is a great deal more to it than advertised.

To the earnest student of anatomy, the directoire gown does not afford a tenth of the advantages and modern conveniences of the most modest of bathing costumes. It is a trifle snug, and, upon occasion, might afford an insight into the fact that milady wears hosiery. This, however is a suspicion already well grounded in the minds of those who have passed the Flatiron building on a windy day. In other respects, the directoire gown is quite circumspect. Our fears, gentlemen, have been groundless.

"Well, if she goes and does it again, I won't have a bit of sympathy for her."

The time, any old. The place, wherever females congregate. The speakers, most any aggregation of New Yorkers. The sentiment is the same, whether the dialogue be overheard in Fifth avenue or the East Side. The reference, of course, is to the coming marriage of Mme. Anna Gould, ex-wife of Count Boni Castellane, and His Highness, Prince Helie de Sagan.

According to reports from Paris, Mme. Gould and her prince will be joined in the holy bonds of matrimony, until death or the divorce mills do them part, a week from tomorrow. New York is vastly interested in the event, despite the pessimistic predictions as to results. It is unfortunate that the ceremony is not to be performed in New York, so that we might again give proof of our democratic simplicity and our detestation of international marriages.

A riot of the peasantry, eager to catch a glimpse of wealthy and "noble" newly-weds, is an inspiring spectacle, and I shall never forgive Mme. Gould for her lack of patriotism in denying the coveted revel. What are the off-spring of millionaires good for, anyway, if not to furnish amusement to the hoi polloi who put up the cash?

S.S.S.

PURELY VEGETABLE GREATEST OF ALL TONICS

Very few persons are able to pass the Spring season with any degree of physical comfort, without the aid of a tonic. Our systems change with the changing seasons, and more is required of the blood, from which source our bodies receive their nourishment and strength, at this particular season than at others.

During the cold Winter months we do not exercise as freely as in warmer weather, the skin is not as active in removing the waste and refuse matter, and the other avenues of drainage are dull and sluggish in their work. Thus the impurities which should pass off are left in the system, and are absorbed into the blood.

When Spring comes and all nature takes on new life, we change our mode of living, and greater demands are made on the blood for nourishment and strength to enable us to meet the changed conditions. But the Winter accumulations have polluted the blood and destroyed its nutritive qualities to such an extent that it is not able to supply the increased needs of the system, and we suffer in consequence.

Our physical machinery seems to get "out of gear," and suffers from debility, weakness, nervousness, loss of appetite, etc. Sleep is not refreshing, there is a constant worn-out feeling, and we do not feel equal to performing the ordinary duties of daily life.

When the system is in this disordered condition it must have assistance; it must be aided with a tonic, and it should be a medicine which has the additional qualities of a first-class blood purifier, for to restore health the blood must be cleansed of all impurities.

S. S. S. is the best Spring tonic, and it is recognized as the oldest and best blood purifier. It is made entirely of roots and herbs of the forests and fields, and as it does not contain the slightest trace of mineral in any form, is especially adapted for a systemic remedy, and has the additional value of being absolutely safe for young or old. S. S. S. re-establishes the healthy circulation of the blood, rids the body of that run-down, worn-out feeling, improves the appetite and digestion, and brings about a return of health and strength to those whose systems have been weakened and depleted. S. S. S. acts more promptly and satisfactorily than any other medicine, and those who are beginning to feel the need of a tonic to fortify themselves against the unpleasant conditions which come with Spring, should commence its use at once. Not only will it tone up the system, but it will remove any humor from the blood, and prevent an outbreak of Eczema, Acne, Tetter, Poison Oak, Poison Ivy, or other skin disease or eruption, which is so common at this season. S. S. S. is for sale at all drug stores.

Last Spring my blood was out of order and my system was completely run down. I needed a tonic badly. I tried other medicines which did me little or no good, and then I commenced S. S. S. I had not used it long before I felt better, and after taking it a short while my blood was thoroughly cleansed and my general health restored. S. S. S. gave me a fine complexion, increased my weight and strength, and acted as a very refreshing, invigorating tonic to my entire system. As a tonic S. S. S. can not be equaled. That is my opinion of it, and if I could, I would induce every one to use it in the Spring.

Sedalia Boys Were Beaten.

Val Clark, Deloss Niblack, Lester Ayers, John Ferguson, Will Peltier, Henry Esser, Joe Embrey, Robert Ferguson and Emmett Petty, a ball team known as the Sedalia Cubs, came out Saturday and played with the Owsley team in the afternoon, says the Green Ridge Local News. The Owsley boys "kinda hung it onto" them. The score was 13 to 7 in favor of Owsley. Ralph Durrill, Joe Darr, Homer Robertson and Estill Tevis, of this city, witnessed the game.

"AD" DION'T GET HIM WIFE

MISS WYLES RESISTS WILES OF SWAIN ACCEPTED AFTER CORRESPONDENCE.

HIS SIZE DID NOT SATISFY HER

New Orleans Man Proves Too Small in Missouri Girl's Eyes—She Evidently Wanted Warrior Bold.

Clarence, Mo., June 6.—Because he fell a few inches short in height and a number of pounds in weight, Ben Mouchon, of New Orleans, will not be the husband of pretty 19-year-old Elsie Wyles of this town, who answered Mr. Mouchon's advertisement in a St. Louis newspaper.

The advertisement which struck Miss Wyles' fancy stated that "a wealthy young man of New Orleans was desirous of meeting a pretty Missouri girl, who would make him a good wife."

A letter from Clarence brought a quick reply, accompanied by a photograph. The photograph looked all right, but you can't tell from a picture whether a man is 5 foot 3 or 6 foot 2; he might weigh 170 pounds or only 100. But he looked good to the Clarence girl, and she sent her picture.

After corresponding for three months the man in New Orleans said he would come up if the Missouri girl would say "yes." She said "yes" —for him to come.

He wired that he would be here Tuesday night. Instead, he came Tuesday morning and met his fair correspondent at the depot. She didn't recognize him, for she had dreamed of a tall, broadshouldered athlete, and the applicant for her hand was not built that way.

During the day Mr. Mouchin called on Miss Wyles and expressed his satisfaction at seeing her come so fully up to expectations. He assured her that she surpassed the girl of his hopes, and that all was well.

But the lady hesitated.

"I thought you were a great big man," she said.

"Why—why, what's the size got to do with it?" he wanted to know.

"I don't know," said Miss Wyles, doubtfully. "I like great, big masterful men; the kind that do things."

The suitor remained a week, pressing his suit, and at last gave it up. Her head was set. The most comforting thing she would say was that he could "go home and I'll think it over, and maybe let you know, but"—

But the jig is up; there'll be no orange blossoms on that combination, because the conventions of society require two to make a marriage, and that condition is wanting here.

WILL RACE 650 MILES

The New York-Bermuda Motor Contest Started Saturday.

New York, June 6.—With the cheers of hundreds of onlookers ringing in their ears, the contestants in the New York-Bermuda motor boat race set forth today in their staunch little craft to brave the 650 miles of tossing billows that lie between New York harbor and St. David's Head, Bermuda.

This is the second race of the kind, the first having been won last year by the Ailsa Craig, which maintained an average speed of twelve miles. The winner will receive the James Gordon Bennett challenge cup, and a cash prize of $1,000.

LONG SWIM FOR WHIS

Snakebitten Woman Thinks She Owes Her Life to a Neighbor.

McAlester, Ok., June 6.—Mrs. B. C. Self, of Tannehill Prairie neighborhood, several miles out, declares she owes her life to a neighbor who swam over a half mile this week to reach McAlester to get her some whisky.

Mrs. Self had been bitten by a copperhead snake and her home was surrounded by water. A neighbor who knew of her misfortune volunteered to come to this city for whisky. He was compelled to swim a good part of the way, but made good, and Mrs. Self is still alive.

ESCAPED MURDERER CAUGHT

Joe Wolf Was Given Forty Years in Texas Prison for Killing.

Fort Worth, Tex., June 6.—Joe Wolf, who two years ago with other prisoners broke jail here, has been captured in Reno, Nev., and a deputy sheriff from this city will be sent to that place to bring the prisoner to Fort Worth.

The offense which first brought Wolf into prominence was the murder of Jim Wilson. He was tried and convicted on this charge and was given a term in the penitentiary.

The case was appealed and during the time it remained with the higher court, Wolf, who was out on bond, was arrested, tried for highway robbery, convicted and sentenced to forty years in the penitentiary. Wolf escaped and has been at large ever since, until his capture in Reno.

Wolf's pal, Walter McMillan, was arrested with him and upon being tried was given thirty years. He and Wolf, together with other prisoners, broke jail here, an several months later McMillan was captured in Kansas.

AUTOMOBILE SPEEDWAY

WILL TRAVERSE LONG ISLAND IN THE NOT VERY DISTANT FUTURE.

GIGANTIC PROJECT INAUGURATED

It Is Expected That Fifteen of the Sixty Miles' Course Will Be Completed by October 1—Ground Is Broken.

New York, June 6.—With the casting of the first spadeful of earth by W. K. Vanderbilt, Jr., the gigantic project of an automobile speedway that will traverse Long Island was formally inaugurated this afternoon. The ceremony was witnessed by a large number of motorists and much enthusiasm was manifested, as it marked the beginning of actual work on the long cherished dream of metropolitan auto owners.

From this time on the work will be pushed by the Long Island Motor Parkway Co., of which W. K. Vanderbilt, Jr., is president. Supplies have been distributed along the entire western portion of the parkway to facilitate the work, and it is expected that by October 1 at least fifteen miles of the new parkway will be finished.

The construction will not stop at fifteen miles, the contracts let calling for the completion of as much of the sixty miles of road as possible. What that means to the plans of the Vanderbilt cup commission in the selection of the course for the Vanderbilt cup race in October can be generally appreciated. It practically assures the holding of the cup race on Long Island.

This roadway will be from 100 to 200 feet wide throughout its length. Its adaptibility for contests like the Vanderbilt cup race will be perfect. It would be possible when the first fifteen miles are completed to make turns in the road at Garden City and beyond Hicksville, so that the cars could swing around a short circuit and then return on the same speed way.

In this way a road would be provided that would be possible to police perfectly, over which cars could run in full view of extensive grandstands, where cars might speed with no restrictions save those that mechanical limitations inflict. If the plan can be consummated, and there now seems no obstacle in the way, the Vanderbilt cup race could be run under better auspices than ever before in its history, or, in fact, that have marked any races in automobile history.

When it is considered that all railroads and highways intercepted are to be crossed either above or below grade, and that throughout the distance the highway will be free from speed traps, the benefits to be derived from its use by the man who maintains a summer residence on Long Island can readily be appreciated. As a specially prepared boulevard, the holding of contests of speed, endurance, economy, under actual road conditions, is rendered feasible.

The route in its course traverses many of the beauty spots of Long Island, unknown to the ordinary tourist, but holding particular attraction to those who have resided upon or toured on Long Island.

Fifty Years for Man Who Avenged Insult to His Sister.

Andalusia, Ala., June 6.—Sitting between his sister, for the honor of whose name he killed George Bagley, and his aged, white-haired father, whose sobbing protests filled the court room, Finley Howard was Friday sentenced to prison for 50 years, being found guilty of first degree murder.

The severity of the verdict was a surprise, as Howard's testimony that he shot Bagley for slandering the name of his sister and also in self-defense, was substantiated by several witnesses.

The Bagley and Howard families are both wealthy and prominent. An appeal will be taken to the supreme court.

One Thousand Dollars Reward!

The Anti-Saloon League of Sedalia hereby offers $1000 in rewards for evidence leading to the arrest and conviction of any person guilty of violating the laws against illegal voting, giving or taking bribes to influence voting or tampering with ballots or with the count in connection with the local option election of June 11, 1908. For evidence leading to the first conviction we offer a reward of $200. For evidence leading to additional convictions, up to sixteen, we offer a reward of $50 for each conviction. The money was deposited in the Third National Bank on Saturday, June 6, to be paid according to the above conditions. Over 1000 are behind this move. Help us and we will deliver the goods.

The Law Will Be Enforced---Resolution Adopted Friday Night

Whereas, Many of the citizens of Sedalia are in doubt as to the enforcement of the laws governing the sale of intoxicating liquors, should Sedalia adopt Local Option on June 11th, 1908; therefore, we, the business men and taxpayers of Sedalia, being called together in a special mass meeting at Wood's Opera House, with Judge B. G. Wilkerson in the chair, this the 5th day of June, 1908, pledge ourselves to spare neither time nor money to see to it that all the local option laws are fully enforced in the city.

Miss Gertrude England

Millinery, 1205 South Ingram Street, says:

"I am heartily in favor of local option, business or no business. When our boys and girls are at stake it is not a time to consider dollars and cents. What are dollars and cents compared to men's souls?"

J. T. Montgomery

Lawyer, in the Sedalia National Bank Building, says:

"The saloons should go because they are a curse to all humanity and a stumbling block to progress. They stand against everything good in life, and stand for everything that is bad and disgraceful. I feel it would be a step forward in progress for Sedalia, that could not be estimated, by ridding ourselves of the saloon on June 11."

L. M Monsees

Proprietor of the Limestone Valley Farm, says:

"I have lived in a saloon community for 48 years and I have yet to see the first good coming from the business, but I do know any number of good, honest and conscientious men that have squandered all they had and were left ruined and penniless. Every man that loves his or his neighbor's children will, on June 11, vote against the saloon. I cannot see how Sedalia can hope to gain the better class of citizens by keeping her saloons when it is the better class of people that have voted against the saloon in the eighty counties around Sedalia. If Sedalia keeps her saloons she will be offering inducements to the riffraff of humanity from these eighty counties.

H. W. Harris

President Third National Bank, says:

"I believe I am standing up for Sedalia, for our boys and girls, and for our homes, and all of the sacred influences when I cast my vote for local option."

W. L. Porter

The Real Estate Man, says:

"Local option ought to carry in Sedalia because—

"1. It is right.

"2. It is good for the individual; and what is good for the individual is good for the community.

"3. It will help the material interests of our city by saving to our people that proper proportion of their earnings which are now worse than wasted, for liquor destroys rather than builds up.

"4. It will put Sedalia in line with other progressive communities of the country which are standing for a higher standard of citizenship, of law enforcement, of honesty in public as well as private life.

"5. Because it will remove many of the temptations and evil influences which destroy so many of our young people."

Jndge G. B. Wilkerson

"From an economic standpoint I regard the $350,000.00 which is paid to the saloon as money worse than wasted. This $350,000.00 is utterly wasted, so far as Sedalia is concerned, except the $13,500 which it returns to us in license. It certainly is a very bad financial proposition for Sedalia to spend $350,000 every year to get back but $13,500.00. From a moral standpoint I regard the saloon as utterly bad. Even the M. M. & P. M. have not touched upon this side of the question. The saloon is a rallying point for all vicious characters in the community. It is a school to teach drunkenness and crime. I should regard the success of the local option election as a great advancement for social and political decency, as well as a great step in the direction of reducing drunkenness and crime, and it certainly would be a step for a better Sedalia."

P. G. Stafford

Real Estate and Loans, 507 Ohio Street, says:

"I feel sure that if Sedalia goes dry that it will be a help to other lines of business. I think the volume of business would be increased. To vote dry is the only means of bringing people of character and means to live here. It will be a very decided help from a moral standpoint."

307 West Fourth Street, says:

"I have taken this position in favor of local option because I feel that it will benefit 25 per cent of the people the first year, 98 per cent the second and the entire community the third. If there is any doubt about the people as to law enforcement should local option carry on June 11, come to one of our citizens' meetings, select your officers, and I will guarantee that all laws will be enforced."

E. B. Gibson

300 West Fourth Street, says:

"I can see no way how it would injure Sedalia to vote her saloons out, but, on the other hand. I do believe it will be a great help to the town, both morally and financially. This condition will not be felt at ONCE, but eventually it will help us."

J. T. Montgomery

The Lawyer, says:

"I am for local option because I believe it is right. I believe that the evils of the open saloon are far worse than any possible result that may follow from closing them; that they only produce wretchedness and misery on the community, and that the welfare of the whole city demands their suppression whatever may be the cost."

J. S. Wagle

1221 South Moniteau, says:

"I endorse everything that can be said in favor of local option. I think that it will be a very decided benefit, both individually and collectively. Being a mechanic and living in Sedalia for 7 years, and being affiliated with the laboring men, I know it will be a good thing for them."

(Signed)

Anti-Saloon League

IF THE LIQUOR TRAFFIC DOES NOT HURT YOU, IN THE NAME OF GOD REMEMBER US AND OUR BOYS, AND HELP US BY VOTING AGAINST THE SALOON ON JUNE 11.

Some Thoughts for Thoughtful People

1. The claim of the saloon keepers that if the local option law is adopted by the people it will be violated and defied by them convicts them out of their own mouths as lawbreakers and undesirable citizens. The mere fact that a law is or will be violated is no valid reason against it. The laws against murder, theft, forgery and embezzlement are violated every day, but the violation of such laws constitutes no ground for their repeal. There may be some illicit and secret sale of liquor under a local option law, but it will reduce the traffic to aminimum and remove a ruinous temptation from men too weak to resist and enabe them to be good citizens.

2. The saloonkeepers argue that even if the liquor traffic is bad wiping it out will reduce the revenue of the city $13,500.00 per annum and the citizens will be inconvenienced by the necessary reduction of fire hydrants, lights, and fire protection. The receipts of the city during the past year of 1907 over disbursements were $1,289.84. Subtracting this surplus from the $13,500 lost revenue leaves a little over $12,000 net loss. The expenditures for the police during 1907 were $8,285.20. Reduce the police by half, because only half the force will be needed when the saloons, which breed crimes and disturbances, go out of existence. This saves over $4,000. And the remainder can be saved out of the street and alley and engineer account, the expenditures of which last year were $12,887.28. The bulk of this was expended in the work of grading streets. This work can be done at the expense of the property owners, but not unless the majority of the property owners on any particular street consent that the work shall be so done. $8,000 of expenditure or more can be easily saved in this way, and this disposes of the necessity of doing away with any of our lights, fire hydrants or fire protection, about which apparently the so-called Merchants, Etc., Association, but in reality the saloonkeepers, are so concerned. If the city authorities are disposed they can proceed with other economies and reduce disbursements along other lines and even operate the city without the whisky money and yet have a considerable surplus left every year to apply in reduction of the city's bonded indebtedness.

3. The saloonkeepers admit that $350,000 of the money of Sedalians is spend over the bars every year, which, taking out the Sundays, would leave an expenditure of about $1,100 a day. This claim is an underestimate and there is fully $1,500 a day wasted in drink and over a $1,000 every day sent by checks and bank drafts through the mails to Lemp, Anheuser-Busch and to the Illinois and eKntucky distillers. This bleeds our city every day to that extent. Why not keep this money at home and, instead of spending it over the bar for whisky and beer, spend it for useful articles. The thirty saloons possibly average a proprietor, a day and night barkeeper and a porter, or 120 men. $1,000 dollars a day is the equivilent of an institution or manufactory employing 500 men at $2 per day each. If the saloons are voted out this $1,000 a day will be spent in the grocery, dry goods, hardware and other stores and will increase the volume of trade so that at least 120 new clerks and employes will be needed to handle it. The money spent for whisky every day had better be put in the fire, as though it would be lost no more completely than if wasted in liquors, it would do no harm to men and innocent women and children.

Keep Your Eye on the Dollar

"HIGH TAXES."—When the saloon man mentions "HIGH TAXES," just keep your eye on the dollar. They are as high NOW as the law allows. Surely a man that will take food out of little children's mouths and shoes off their feet and clothes off their backs so that they can't go to school, while his own family is clothed in silks and satins, don't care for so small a thing as YOUR TAX BILL.

"RUINING OTHER BUSINESSES."—When he mentions the "ruinings of other businesses," just keep your eye on the dollar. If the saloon men of Sedalia care cared about other lines of businesses they would not grab up $400,000.00 every year and send it to the millionaire liquor men, on commission. (This is but $33.1-3 a day per bar.)

"ALL THE CAPITAL."—When they commence to tell you about "ALL THE CAPITAL" invested in the business, just keep your eye on the dollar. Where did the liquor business get all this capital? Because poor little children and miserable wives had to sacrifice it is no sign that they shoud CONTINUE to suffer to help these milionaires get MORE money.

"ROCKY ROADS."—When they commence to tell you about "ROCK ROADS," just keep your eye on the dollar. Where does the saloon man get the money to build our rock roads? Don't every property owner and taxpayer of Pettis county suffer this shortage of OUR money that the saloon men collect and send away and pay us a small per cent? We could pave every inch of their "ROCKY ROADS" with broken hearts, and keep it sprinkled for years to come with the tears the infernal traffic has caused.

"CAN'T ENFORCE IT."—When he tells you we can't enforce it if we vote it out, just keep your eye on the dollar. He is trying to run a bluff. "If you won't vote to let us sell it NOW, we will sell it any how." When they have been vioating the law daily, what do they care about law enforcement?

"PEOPLE IN THE BUSINESS."—When he tells you about "all the people in the business," just keep your eye on the dollar. When they are in the business of making men lose their jobs, what do they care about other people being at work? Sedalia would be dollars and trouble ahead EVERY YEAR if she would build an orphanage and put all these people init who can't make an honest living, and keep them year in and year out. Billy Sunday says, "Let the mtake in washing like they have made other people do."

"EMPTY BUILDINGS."—When he commences to tell you about "all the empty buildings," just keep your eye on the dollar. Every day the saloons are CLOSED Sedalia citizens are about $1,000.00 better off and the millionaire liquor men are poorer, and whi can afford this condition the better? It would be money in our pockets and more honorable to assess the poor drunkards' families every month and pay the owners of these buildings the rent they NOW bring—but they will be occupied.

"MORE WHISKY SOLD."—When they tell you there is MORE whisky sold in DRY territory, just keep your ey on the dollar. If they could sell more DRINK they would have had it dry centuries ago, for these people want the money. If it increases their business why are they so desperate in their efforts to keep it from going dry.

J. C. McLaughlin

Of the firm McLaughlin Bros., says:

"I do not believe to drive out the saloon would stop the entire sale of liquor, but I do believe that to save even one-half of the best revenue that is squandered over the bars of our city would mean greater sales to our business men and increase the prosperity of our business men, and certainly it would produce less distress and crime. Our business men all lose many dollars each year in bad accounts—customers who cannot pay on account of the drink habit they have formed. Collections would be decidedly better with a dry city.

Charles Hoffman

The Grocer, 728 East FIfth Street, says this:

"It will help Sedalia to vote dry because the saloon is against good morals. It tears down what is built by the churches and schools. It will help us because a place or business that is not fit for women or children is not fit for men. It will help us because the saloon is a great financial waste, and the $350,000.00 spent every year in Sedalia is worse than wasted. About 9 per cent of my losses are with the men who drink and gamble. It will help us because people would rather bring their families to a city FREE of saloons. I believe that if we do not vote the saloons out that in a short time we will not get any more appropriations for the STATE FAIR, because all other cities that have the state institutions have voted them out and are kept clean."

W. J. Letts

501 South Engineer Street, says:

"That to vote out the saloons will greatly help the morals of our city, and taxes, if raised at all, would not hurt anyone and should not be considered. Taxes are just as high now as the constitution will permit, and it would be about three years before the taxes could be increased. I believe it would increase business, because the money that goes over the bar would be spent in other lines of business. My conversation with the traveling men has convinced me that any locality that votes a saloon out sees a change for the better in business conditions."

T. J. McCormick

1003 East Fifth Street, says:

"It would help Sedalia to vote the saloons out because it would help us morally. The contention that the saloon element are using on the finance question is a farce; in a short time we would be in better condition, and in a year or so those who are now in the liquor business would not feel the loss. My experience has been that where cities ridded themselves of the saloon that invariably a better class of citizens came to that city for school purposes, etc. We will not lose a single good citizen because of voting the saloon out, and I feel that we will gain many. Another thing that convinces me that it is right to get rid of the saloon is that Maine has been rid of the saloon for 50 years and has not taken them back, and that even Kansas has been dry since 1880 and as a state they have never countenanced the open saloon. If prohibition was such a bad thing, surely these states would take up the liquor business again. In regard to enforcing the laws the people should remember that our officers are inspired as never before and we have enough people interested now in electing them that will enforce the law.

J. S. Baughner

1210 East Fourth Street, Shoe Cobbler, says:

"I have raised a family of three boys and I have tried my very best to raise them right. This I did until they became almost of age, and even then the saloon had caught them in their clutches. The saloons of Sedalia are the greatest curse in all Sedalia. I have followed my boys night and day to the saloon and I know something of the curse of the business. One of my boys worked over in Saline county, and for several years he would ride 22 miles to be at home on Sunday with us. He worked for Judge Finley. He was a church member and was a bright prospect in life, and at the age of 22 he commenced to work for a second-hand dealer on West Main street, next door to a saloon, and he commenced the drink habit there and it has almost ruined him. His employer in the second-hand business was completely ruined, and because of the liquor and drink took his own life. I often hear people say, 'The saloons do not bother me and I am not going to bother them.' If these people could only suffer for ten minutes as my wife and I have suffered for years over this infernal traffic, they would certainly be more thoughtful for other people and their welfare. I do trust that the good people of Sedalia will not forget the families who are so unfortunate as ours has been in regard to the liquor traffic."

R. A. Dunlap

"I am for local option, first, for the reason that the liquor traffic is an acknowledged evil, daily ruining men, breaking up happy homes, making slaves of the women and children, corrupting the boys and young men of the country and making criminals, paupers and tramps out of men fitted by God and education to fill the highest places in our city and state. Then, from an economic standpoint, the saloon is a curse to everyone (though I do not think we should look at any but the moral side of this great issue). It is filling our prisons, poor homes, insane asylums, reform schools and such institutions with men and women to be kept, fed and guarded at an expense several times what we receive from our saloon licenses. Then we have the extra cost for large police forces and criminal costs, to say nothing of the value to us of the many thousands of useful men that are lost to us by being made useless by drink."

NO VERDICT REACHED

JURY IN CASE OF "DODE" HUBBARD FAILED TO AGREE.

IT WAS LOCKED UP LAST NIGHT

Defendant Has Fainted Twice During the Trial—One of the Most Bitterly Fought Cases in Recent Years.

The famous "Dode" Hubbard robbery case which has been on trial in the criminal court since Wednesday morning, went to the jury at 1 o'clock Saturday afternoon, but at 9 o'clock last night the jury had failed to reach a verdict and was put to bed for the night by order of Judge Hoffman.

Every possible effort will be made to have the jurymen agree today, as the tediousness of the case has manifested itself on all of the court officers, attorneys and witnesses, and the jury will be locked up until late this aternoon perhaps, before being discharged in case they do not reach a verdict.

The case was called for trial last Wednesday morning, C. C. Kelly and A. L. Shortridge representing the defendant, while H. D. Dow prosecuted. At 3 o'clock Friday afternoon the defendant fainted and the case was continued until yesterday morning.

A second attack manifested itself again yesterday, and the case was inevitably delayed. The defendant was soon revived and Prosecutor Dow closed the arguments at 12:10 o'clock yesterday afternoon.

After being given their dinner, the jurymen returned to their room, but late last evening reported that they could not agree. Judge Hoffman deemed it inadvisable to discharge the jury at that time.

The defendant is charged with having stolen $80 from S. E. Scarlett, an inmate of the old soldiers' home at Higginsville, Mo., while he was visiting in this city on Dec. 6, last.

Prosecutor Dow fought the case bitterly from the opening to the close. The evidence of nearly every one of the defendant's witnesses was impeached in Prosecutor Dow's rebuttal, and the strongest fight ever witnessed on the state's side during Prosecutor Dow's term of office was listened to by a throng that filled every seat in the court room from the opening to the close of the case.

The attorneys for the defense also made a strong fight in the case and contested every inch of ground. The following comprise the jury: R. V. Denny, Pat Connor, Henry Heisterberg, Perry Lewis, D. M. Bryan, D. A. Mason, W. F. McFarland, C. D. Warren, R. M. Ellis, Ross Rodecker, Frank Vollrath and William Tabbert.

The case has been a very expensive one to the county.

GAS TANKS BLEW UP

Eleven Persons Hurt in Indianapolis, but None Fatally.

Indianapolis, Ind., June 6.—The plant of the Presto Light company on South street, which stores gas in tanks, blew up this morning. Eleven persons were injured, but none fatally.

St. Vincent's hospital and the fire engine house adjoining were badly damaged.

THE BURIAL OF SAILORS

Who Were Injured by Explosion on the "Tennessee."

San Pedro, Cal., June 6.—A fog this morning delayed the removal of the sailors who suffered in yesterday's explosion of a boiler tube on the armored cruiser Tennessee.

One of the injured died during the night. The funeral of the dead sailors was held this afternoon.

LIQUOR MAN WINS CASE

Supreme Court Says Sale Takes Place When Carrier Gets Article.

Jefferson City, Mo., June 6.—Abraham Rosenberger, a Kansas City distiller, won his suit in the supreme court today. He was ordered released in an opinion by Judge Burgess filed in the court in banc.

This case involved the C. O. D. shipment of liquors into local option counties and means much to the wholesale liquor interests in St. Louis, Kansas City and St. Joseph in these days of local option. The question was whether the sale of liquor was made where delivered to the common carrier or at the point where delivered by that carrier. Rosenberger was fined in Webster county, the circuit court holding that the sale took place where the liquor was delivered.

The supreme court reversed that judgment, holding that the selling place was where the article was delivered to the carrier for transmission. Rosenberger was released from his fine.

A SUIT FOR $340,000.00

IT IS FILED BY HEAD BANKER C. H. McNIDER, OF MODERN WOODMEN OF AMERICA.

AGAINST THE F. R. CROCKER ESTATE

Bond Sent by Letter to the Woodmen on July 25, 1905, It is Said, Has Been Practically Proved a Forgery.

Chariton, June 6.—Head Banker C. H. McNider, of Mason City, representing the Modern Woodmen of America, filed a claim today for $340,000 against the F. R. Crocker estate, on the ground of an alleged deposit that the Woodmen head banker had in the defunct First National bank here.

A copy of the famous Woodmen bond, sent by Crocker July 25, 1905, has been practically proved a forgery.

All of the men whose names appear on the bond state positively that they never signed it.

WILL GIVE FINE CARNIVAL

The Ladies of Sacred Heart Church on the 16th, 17th and 18th.

The ladies of Sacred Heart parish are preparing for a carnival to be held at Sacred Heart hall on June 16, 17 and 18. Short stage entertainments will be given the three evenings, after which the guests will have the pleasure of viewing the many attractive booths that will be arranged throughout the spacious hall.

Particularly interesting will be the klipping booth, where 1,000 presents, comprising fancy quilts, sofa pillows, drawn work, pictures, etc., will be so arranged that selections can be made at the pleasure of the guests, while the work of the klipping committee in attendance will be both interesting and enjoyable.

Other booths will be fancy aprons, souvenirs, home made candies, popcorn and peanuts.

An artistic lemonade well, with Rebecca and her pitcher, also refreshments of cake and cream will be served.

An art exhibit will occupy an anteroom of the large auditorium, while a gypsy tent, conducted by real artists will be one of the concessions.

On Tuesday evening a drama will be given by the young people of the parish. On Wednesday evening Dr. George McNeil will entertain the visitors with stereopticon views of modern Europe, also side lights of the Madonna.

On Thursday evening the gypsies will give an "encampment." No charges, and all are cordially invited.

THE KAW RIVER IS HIGH

A Further Rise of Four Feet Expected Before Monday.

Kansas City, Mo., June 6.—Rainfall has caused a general rise along the Kaw river that may develop into a serious condition of affairs.

At many points the river has risen to a flood stage, and a rise of four feet is expected all along the lower Kaw before Monday forenoon.

Won a Scholarship.

Mortimer Morris, a young man of Clark, Mo., and a cousin of W. T. and M. H. Morris, of this city, came to Sedalia yesterday to enter Hill's Business college, he having recently won ascholarship for receiving the best grades and highest honors of the graduating class of the public schools of that city.

SIX DEAD; FOUR WILL DIE

SEVERAL OTHERS MORE OR LESS SERIOUSLY HURT IN FRIDAY'S TORNADOS.

SWEPT EVERYTHING BEFORE THEM

They Were Two in Number, and Passed Through a Portion of Nebraska—A List of the Dead and Also Those Hurt.

Geneva, Neb., June 6.—At least six are dead, four are fatally hurt and several others more or less fatally injured as a result of Friday's tornado, which swept across Fillmore county and destroyed everything in its path. A list of the dead follows:

Lulu Smith, a domestic in the home of John Shively.

The 4-year-old daughter of John Shively.

Elijah Argenbricht, two miles east of Shicklet.

Two children by the name of Small near North Branch, Kan.

The fatally injured are: John Merriam, near Shicklet; Mrs. Elijah Argenbricht, Ross Shively.

The seriously hurt are: Ed Russell, a farm hand on Shively's farm; John Shively and wife.

A number of other persons have been injured, but their names are not known.

The tornadoes were two in number.

All Nebraska roads still suffer from washouts and many trains are annuulled.

THE CASE OF DR. SIMONDS

Waived Examination Saturday—The Corbitt Hearing June 25.

Dr. W. T. Simonds, charged with having performed a criminal operation on Anna Bell, a 19-year-old girl, who died south of Sedalia some two weeks, ago, waived his preliminary examination before Judge Rickman Saturday and was released on a $2,000 bond, signed by his sons, Dr Wallace and Jacob Simonds, for appearance at the Pettis county criminal court.

Dr. Simonds' bond, which was formerly $3,000, was reduced to $2,000 at the request of R. A. Higdon, attorney for the defendant, who procured the consent of W. D. Steele, who represented the state at the examination.

G. H. Corbitt, charged with being an accessory to the crime, had his examination continued until June 25, through Attorney O'Bannon, and was released on a $2,000 bond.

Everett Casto, the man charged with having seduced the girl and also with having made arrangements for the criminal operation waived his preliminary examination immediately after being arrested.

MANY ATTACKED BY A CAT

The Feline Was Finally Killed With a Club in Brooklyn.

New York, June .—A large gray cat ran wildly through the streets of Brooklyn yesterday afternoon, attacking every one it passed. It was finally killed with a club.

All persons who were bitten have been advised to seek the Pasteur treatment. Five were severely injured.

CONVENTION BEGINS MONDAY

The Missouri Anti-Saloon League to Hold Two Days' Session.

The Anti-Saloon league of Missouri will hold its annual state convention at the Pettis county court house in this city, beginning Tuesday morning. The meeting will close Wednesday noon. Between seventy-five and 100 delegates will attend.

There will be prominent speakers in attendance, who will speak during the recesses of the convention, and reports of state work will be heard, and the general outline of the work of the league in Missouri will be arranged.

Bishop Hendrix Is Here.

Bishop E. R. Hendrix, of Kansas City, Mo., arrived in Sedalia last evening and is visiting in the home of Mr. and Mrs. Charles W. Daugherty, on West Sixth street.

Bishop Hendrix is one of America's foremost churchmen and preachers, and the people of Sedalia are fortunate in having an opportunity to hear him.

Bishop Hendrix will preach at the M. E. church, South, morning and evening, today.

ROBBERS ARE RUN DOWN

ONE OF THE QUARTETTE SHOT AND KILLED BY DETECTIVE ENGLEHART.

THE LATTER WAS TWICE WOUNDED

Three Other Robbers Barricaded in a Vacant House, Holding Citizens at Bay With Revolvers and Shotguns.

Pittsburg, Pa., June 6.—While attempting to arrest four men this morning, near Elizabeth, County Detective Englehart shot and killed one and was himself wounded twice.

The men are alleged to have been implicated in a holdup and robbery of the Monongahela Consolidated Coal and Coke company's general store last Thursday.

Three other men are barricaded in a vacant house, holding a posse of citizens at bay with rifles and revolvers.

An automobile carrying six county detectives left here this morning. A desperate battle is expected when the detectives reach the scene.

WILL PRESENT TAFT'S NAME

Congressman Burton, of Ohio, in a Twenty-Minute Speech.

Washington, June 6.—It is understood that Representative Burton will take twenty minutes in proposing Secretary Taft as a presidential candidate, and Senator Borah will consume about six or seven minutes in seconding the nomination.

Other speeches probably will be governed by the same limitations, although the convention allows each speaker to be the judge of the time he may consume in making a nomination.

PREPARING A PLATFORM

That It Is Hoped Will Not Fall Beneath Taft's Weight.

Norfolk, Va., June 6.—Wade Ellis, attorney general of Ohio, who has been at Virginia Beach for several days preparing the first draft of the republican national platform, will leave tomorrow for Washington, and thence to Chicago.

THE WATER 12 FEET DEEP

IN THE MAIN STREET OF ENID, OKLAHOMA, AND LOSS IS MANY THOUSANDS.

FIFTY HOUSES ARE WASHED AWAY

Occupants Had Fled to the Roofs and Many Were Carried Down the Stream, Shouting Wildly for Assistance.

Enid, Okla., June 6.—Enid today faces the most disastrous flood in its history. Following six hours of rainfall, Foggy creek, running through the city, this morning widened from twenty feet to 2,000 feet and flooded practically the whole of Enid, carrying away houses, flooding stores and endangering lives.

Today the water stood twelve feet deep in the main street, covering two blocks of the business center.

Fifty houses were swept away and carried down the stream, with the occupants, who had been driven to the roofs, shouting for help.

Several families floated about at the mercy of the flood waters and in darkness all the night.

OPERATED UPON FOR A TUMOR

Mrs. Leonard Murphy, Near Houstonia, Died Later.

Mrs. Murphy, wife of Leonard Murphy, who resides on T. H. Hurt's farm, was operated on Sunday for a tumor of eight years' growth, which weighed twenty pounds, says the Houstonian.

The patient was in such a weakened condition as to be unable to withstand the shock of the operation and died late Sunday evening.

She was aged 21 years and is survived by her husband and two children, one a two-months-old babe. Funeral services were held Wednesday and the remains were interred in the Witcher cemetery, near Wanamaker.

The operation was performed by Dr. Smith, of Houstonia; Dr. Parks, of Dunksburg; Drs. Ringen and Owens, of Sweet Springs, and Dr. Bishop, of Hughesville.

New York, June 6.—After spending thirty years as an actor Reginald Barlow, son of "Milt" G. Barlow, once a prominent minstrel, anounced today that he is to enter the ministry.

Giving as his ambition a reconciliation of the church and stage, Mr. Barlow anounced that he would assist in conducting services at the Church of the Ascension, Green Point, tomorrow evening.

The news is a surprise to his friends. He is thirty-nine years old.

They Will Meet This Week.

The Missouri Pharmaceutical association and the Missouri Pharmaceutical Travelers' association, of which Oscar H. Ott, of Sedalia, is secretary, will meet at Pertle Springs Tuesday, Wednesday, Thursday and Friday of this week.

WILL FORCE ROBINSON

AMERICAN ANTI-SALOON PRESIDENT TO CONDUCT AN OUSTER MOVE.

THE MAN WELL KNOWN IN SEDALIA

The Reverend P. A. Baker Writes From Columbus, Ohio, He Will Come to St. Louis to Take Charge of the League.

St. Louis, Mo., June 6.—Following the recent refusal of the Rev. U. G. Robinson to resign as superintendent of the Missouri Anti-Saloon league, and the action of the headquarters committee in declaring his office vacant, a statement denunciatory of Dr. Robinson, in which conditions which led up to the controversy now threatening the state league were revealed, was issued yesterday by the officers of the headquarters committee.

Charges against Dr. Robinson are made and a letter from the Rev. P. A. Baker, general superintendent of the American Anti-Saloon league, which is made a part of the denunciation, declares he will come to Missouri and take temporary charge, because he is "convinced that the future of the work demands a new leader in that state."

The men who signed the article are the Rev. Dr. W. B. Palmore, president of the headquarters committee, which claims to be the governing body of the state league; J. H. D. Stephens, vice president, and the Rev. Dr. C. R. Carlos, secretary.

Dr. Robinson, declaring that an entirely new set of men is now running the state organization, which has since been incorporated, still declines to resign, and said last night he would fight all efforts to remove h

Dr. Baker, who resides at Columbus, O., will come to St. Louis as soon as his church matters will allow and take charge in the name of the national league.

The principal allegations made against Superintendent Robinson are that he pursued a course which bred dissensions and strife, that he violated an agreement with the Missouri headquarters committee to resign if harmony continued to be lacking, by not resigning, and that when he was asked to resign he refused and incorporated the league, seizing the records, files and the official organ, the Missouri Issue.

The allegations are captioned: "An address to the public from the officers of the headquarters committee of the original Anti-Saloon league of Missouri." The particular attention of Missouri churches is asked for the document.

Dr. Robinson, in replying to the letter of Dr. Palmore, Dr. Carlos and Mr. Stephens, whom he terms exmembers of the committee, denies that there was an agreement that he would resign at their request, and declares the men before they were relieved of their appointment on the headquarters committee by the new committee under the incorporation, were appointees of his, and that he would, therefore, hardly be expected to resign to them.

The Rev. E. E. Folk, of Nashville, Tenn., a brother of Governor Folk, is on the headquarters committeee of the American league, of which Bishop Luther P. Wilson, of Chattanooga, is president.

Dr. C. R. Carlos took charge of the office of superintendent while Dr. Robinson was out of the state on May 14, following the action of the headquarters committee declaring the office vacant.

THE "PEN" FOR JOHNSON

He Burglarized the Residence of Ben P. Goodwin.

John Johnson, the negro who robbed the home of Ben P. Goodwin on last Thursday night and stole $125 worth of jewelry, after which he boarded an eastbound train for Washington, Mo., where he was arrested at the instance of the Sedalia police, was given a preliminary examination before Judge H. M. Gresham, sitting as ex-officio justice of the peace, Saturday.

Less than two hours afterward Johnson was arraigned for trial before Judge Hoffman in the criminal court, and after pleading guilty to the charge was sentenced to two years in the state penitentiary.

The Weather Report.

Generally fair weather except possibly local thunder storms. Sunday continued warm.

STILL PLAYING THE OLD CONFIDENCE GAME.

It has been a consistent policy of republican congresses, strictly adhered to throughout the history of the party, to never legislate on subjects about which there may be a political division until forced to act under the penalty of an election defeat. It is in pursuance of this policy, which has become more confirmed than ever during the last twelve years of republican administration, that the party has earned the sobriquet of "stand-pat," and that do-nothing congresses have come to be the established order. A radical president, at least twenty years in advance of his party, has been endeavoring to whip it into progressive activity for seven years, but he has been only mildly successful. Even under the lash and spur of a rough riding executive, and the insistent demands of a restless electorate, congressional lethargy has been imperturable. Resistance and reaction have been the order of the day in the legislative halls of Washington.

Far and away the most important matters before the recent session of congress were financial reform and tariff revision. Reconstruction of the national monetary system has been an acknowledged national necessity for ten or twelve years. Yet the subject has received only the most superficial consideration throughout this period of continuous republican administration. Forced to act, finally, after the country had suffered a disastrous panic because of the remissness of congress, the politicians at Washington, fearing rebuke at the impending election, caused a commission to be appointed to investigate the whole financial subject, and this commission announces that it probably will consume three or four years in its work. In other words, the country is to go the length of another administration, or until another election, before our money system is reformed as it should be, if indeed it should chance to be then. In the meantime a temporary expedient, with which nobody is satisfied, and the usefulness of which is problematical, has been palmed off on the business interests to do substitute duty.

Can it be said with any fairness that a party which refused to take up the subject of monetary reform a decade ago, when its need was pressingly apparent, is to be depended upon to grant relief after a four-year political ruse that is deceptive on its face? If the republicans at Washington had been sincerely alert to public needs and conscientious in the performance of the trust reposed in them, would they not have appointed the currency investigating commission four, six, eight or ten years ago and had the problem solved by this time?

But the truth is, the party is using the currency question just as it has so successfully used the tariff question—as a bait to hook the voter into the band wagon and win a doubtful election. How long is this confidence game going to fool the people?

MAKERS OF TARIFFS.

Senator Beveridge was rather more sanguine than the facts warrant when he said at the banquet of the National Association of Manufacturers:

"When our next tariff is made we shall at least have a maximum and a minimum tariff—a tariff not only for protection, but also a tariff for trade; a tariff which will not only preserve our home market, but which will open foreign markets."

The gentlemen who make tariffs on the other side of the ocean are just as smart as we are. If we think we can make a tariff that will get us into foreign markets and shut foreigners out of our markets, we are fooling ourselves. Mr. McKinley knew better than this when he made his last speech in Buffalo. He pointed out that we could not sell exclusively, we must buy.

We do not believe that a considerable reduction of tariff duties would flood our markets with foreign goods. Our manufacturers can meet foreign competition. But a tariff revision that did not make raw material cheaper to our manufacturers would be of little use to them, and foreign nations will not lower their barriers to us unless we make some show of lowering ours to them.

The stand-patters will offer no objection to a maximum and minimum tariff; many of them have already urged it. But they insist that the Dingley duties shall be the minimum and they do not care how high the maximum rates are. If Mr. Beveridge thinks that sort of a tariff is going to open foreign markets to our manufacturers he is mistaken. He may have an idea that if we make no concessions to foreigners, yet they will make concessions to us if we threaten them with absolute seclusion. They will do nothing of the sort. We may damage commerce if we will. We can cut off trade with foreign countries if we choose to. But if we stand on the present rates of duty and threaten foreigners with something worse we shall find them quick enough at retaliation, and our goods will be shut out of foreign markets and our valuable export trade, at least in manufactured goods, will come in for some hard blows. There are plenty of protectionists on the other side of the ocean.

ADVERTISING SENSE.

The manufacturer who doesn't advertise is at the mercy of the middle men in his efforts to get his goods into the hands of consumers. He who carries his appeal convincingly to the great newspaper reading public leaves no option with the middle men—they must handle his product whether they want to or not.

As Batten's Wedge puts it: "When distributors, that is, jobbers and retailers, are compelled to reduce their stocks, owing to sudden money stringency or lessened demand, they always cut out those lines they can do without, and they can't do without well advertised goods."

According to some of his friends, Mr. Roosevelt will not accept the nomination unless nominated. Here, at last, is a clear statement of his position.

With a two-cent letter rate, Uncle Sam and J. Bull ought to rake up a real romantic, lovey-dovey courtship by mail.

Theodore Shonts says that the Duc de Chaulnes died while at prayer. So that's the reason his family tried to suppress the facts?

In the case of an Oregon republican legislature being forced to elect a democratic senator, the pleasure will be all his.

Notice to Taxpayers.

We believe that every man should pay his just share of taxes, but are sorry to learn that quite a number are not doing so. We found over $200,000 of personal property that was not given to the assessor, and are satisfied that this is only a small part that is escaping taxation.

You have elected us to the important duty of looking after the business interests of this county. This we propose to do, and intend using every means of getting the full and complete list of unassessed property in Pettis county.

If every taxpayer will give in all his personal property we can, and will, reduce the levy, therby reducing every one's taxes.

Read Sec. 9150, Vol. 2, Revised Statutes of Missouri, 1899:

Sec. 9150. Treble Assessment for Making Fraudulent List.—If any person shall, with intent to defraud, deliver to any assessor a false list of his property, it shall be the duty of the assessor to give notice in writing thereof to tht said county board of equalization, and the said board shall, on receiving such notice, give notice thereof to the person who shall have furnished such false list, which notice shall specify the particuars in which said list is alleged to be false, and shall fix a time for the hearing of the matter, on which day the person aforesaid shall have the right to appear and defend against such charge; and if it appear that such person is not guilty as charged, the said board shall dismiss such charge; but if it appear that such perso nis guilt yas charged, it shall be the duty af said board of equalization to ascertain the true amount and value of all property of such person subject to taxation, and to tax the same as similar property of other persons is taxed, and, in addition, shall, by way of penalty for furnishing such false list, treble the amount of taxes thus ascertained against such person; and such person shall be required to pay such treble amount, and shall in addition thereto be liable to be punished for perjury. (R. S., 1889. 7537-q.)

Hoping the taxpayers will read this law carefully and be guided by the same, we are, truly,

ROMANCE OF BURIED PICTURES.

Long-Hidden Works of Great Artists Strangely Brought to Light.

The romantic story of the picture purchased at a London auction, which on expert examination proved to be painted over a Rembrandt worth $40,000, is curiously reminiscent of the discovery of a Correggio under similar circumstances. A good many years ago two picture restorers, Lovera and Hunterspergh, bought at an art sale in Rome a number of old pictures in order to provide themselves with canvases for repainting. In the division of the spoils Hunterspergh received an indifferent picture of flowers, on which he painted a study of a head. This picture he offered to Lovera, who, on close examination, found that the new ground scaled off and that underneath were traces of a figure painted in a style that denoted the hand of a master. Replacing the scales, and concealing his discovery, he purchased the picture for little more than the value of the canvas. Removing the two grounds he disclosed an exceedingly clever painting by Correggio, which he sold to the earl of Bristol for $7,500.

Playgrounds.

It's a good scheme to use the school yards as public playgrounds. They are convenient for all sections, and the plan will be indorsed by the people. A few portable swings, an awning with a few benches and a sand pile or two will fill the requirements. —Harrisburg Telegraph.

HAD A DOUBLE WEDDING

Cooper County Sisters Married to Sedalia Gentlemen.

A double wedding was solemnized in Sedalia Wednesday afternoon at 4 o'clock, the brides being from this community and the grooms from Sedalia, in which the place the wedding ceremony was performed, says the Bunceton Tribune. The brides are sisters, daughters of Lovell Kirkpatrick, one of our well known citizens out on R. F. D. No. 2.

The eldest, Mrs. Nora Hall, widow of the late Albert Hall, was married to Mr. Ben Dix, of Sedalia, and her sister, Miss Artie Kirkpatrick, became the bride of Mr. Gus Holner, also of Sedalia.

The weddings were very quiet affairs and the news of this event will reach their many friends as a great surprise. We hasten to extend our congratulations to the happy couples and wish them success and happiness in life.

Mr. and Mrs. Dix and Mr. and Mrs. Holner will make Sedalia their home.

BALLOONISTS FIRED ON

TWO MEN WERE TARGET FOR BULLETS OVER POESTENKILL, NEW YORK.

FOUR SHOTS GRAZED THEIR CAR

N. M. Arnold and C. De Angelis Frua Land at Troy After Flight From North Adams, Mass., on Friday.

North Adams, Mass., June 6.—While the balloon North Adams No. 1 carrying N. M. Arnold, of this city, as pilot, and C. De Angelis Frua, who is said to be an officer of the Italian army, was passing over the village of Poestenkill, N. Y., rifle shots were fired at it, according to Pilot Arnold, who returned here last night.

Mr. Arnold says four shots were heard and that one of the bullets passed between him and his companion in the car, as both felt the wind of it and heard it whizzing.

At that time the balloon was only about 500 feet above the earth. None of the shots penetrated the bag or the car of the balloon.

Mr. Arnold and his companion ascended here at 9:30 o'clock Friday morning, and, finding an easterly current of air, drifted across the state line into New York, landing at Greenbush, near Troy, at 12:30 last afternoon.

WHEN ONE DOES BEST WORK.

Time Varies with the Occupations of the Worker.

The records give an average age of 50 for the performance of the masterwork. For the workers the average is 47 and for the thinkers 52. Chemists and physicians average the youngest at 41; dramatists and playwrights, poets and inventors follow at 44; novelists give an average of 46; explorers and warriors, 47; musical composers and actors, 48; artists and divines occupy the position of equilibrium at 50; essayists and reformers stand at 51; physicians and surgeons line up with statesmen at 52; philosophers give an average of 54; astonomers and mathematicians, satirists and humorists reach 56; historians, 57, and naturalists and jurists 58. As may be noted, there is a rearrangement of the order at this time, but the thinkers, as before, and as would naturally be expected, attain their full maturity at a later period than the workers. The corollary is evident. Provided health and optimism remain the man of 50 can command success as readily as the man of 30. Health plus optimism read the secret of success; the one God-given, the other inborn, but also capable of cultivation to the point of enthusiasm.—Century.

Buds Age with Parent Tree.

According to a government botanist at Washington there is reason to believe that buds share in the growing old of the parent plant. He illustrates his meaning in this way: Suppose the average life of an individual plant—say a tree—to be 100 years, then a bud removed when the parent plant is 50 years old will also be virtually 50 years of age, and if transplanted by grafting will be able to live on the graft only 50 years more.

Herrings Have Long Life.

FOR RELIGIOUS LIBERTY

MR. AND MRS. JOHN S. WIGHTMAN SPOKE LAST NIGHT.

BOTH WERE STIRRING ADDRESSES

Deny the Right of Civil Government to Legislate Upon Matters of Religion and Conscience.

A fair sized audience greeted the Religious Liberty speakers at Wood's opera house last night. Following a musical program by Kroencke's orchestra, John S. Wightman, secretary of the Central States Religious Liberty association briefly stated the object of the association. The organization, he stated, was composed of ten thousand Christian individuals who believed in the absolute separation of church and state.

"We deny the right of a civil government to legislate upon matters of religion and conscience," said Mr. Wightman. 'For government to do so will commit us to a course which in the last analysis will mean ruin to the present system. Eternal vigilance was necessary to the perpetuity of the right of citizens to worship God as they would or not at all if they choose."

Mr. Wightman's manner of invoking the aid of the Supreme Being was indeed unique. Asking the audience to be absolutely silent for a few moments, he seated himself in a chair; the low, soft strains of "Nearer, My God, to Thee" came from the orchestra, a fervent amen from the secretary, and then Mrs. Wightman, the evangelist for the religious rights of the people was introduced.

JOHN S. WIGHTMAN,

Mrs. Wightman is a forceful speaker, and held the close attention of the audience throughout to the end of her speech. She related the object of national reform to change the fundamental law of the land to the end that "Christian institutions and laws" might become incorporated in our government. In this there was danger. "History proves the fallacy of legislating in the interest of religion, or the cause of religion," said Mrs. Wightman, "and every state paper is a disclaimer to the principle of religious legislations. The framers of the constitution plainly disavow any such intention upon their part."

Mrs. Wightman quoted from numerous authorities in support of her contention, read from numerous statements of eminent divines that union of church and state was not a desirable thing to them. The speaker declared that Sunday laws were unconstitutional even in the face of the Missouri declaration of rights, not to speak of the national constitution. Judge Wallace was scored for the part he is taking in advancing the idea of religious legislation upon the part of the civil state, and for his strict compulsory law enforcement of a religious day. Rightly understood, this kind of work was a dangerous menace to free institutions. "We see the first steps; what will be the last steps?" earnestly inquired the speaker. "If things go on in this way—legislating for the people upon questions entirely and essentially religious, the American people may yet find it necessary to take down that famous creation of Bartholi, the statue of liberty, liberty enlightening the whole world, and in its stead erect a great iron image of Cotton Mather, whip in hand; kneeling before him the fair Anabaptist maiden, with outstretched hands, pleading for the inalienable right to worship God according to the dictates of her own conscience.

At the conclusion the speaker was loudly applauded. Secretary Wightman pleasantly bade the people goodnight and the bureau—its workers—move on to other cities and towns, both in South and North Missouri.

Directors—Chas. Hoffman, J. W. Murphy, E. R. Andler, B. M. Lodge, W. E. Staley.

GOLDEN CROWN OF INFANT JESUS

Was Being Broken From Its Fastening When Ren Baci Was Apprehended and Taken in Custody by Three Officers.

New York, June 6.—In the very act of trying to break off the crown of the image of the Infant Jesus, in the Church of the Most Holy Redeemer, in East Third street, early Friday morning, Ren Baci, who said he had no home, was caught by Captain Shaw and two detectives of the Fifth street police station, who had been summoned by Father Englehart, of the church.

The crown at which the man was working is said to be worth $20,000, being of gold with jeweled decoration. Baci surrendered easily to the police, and when asked for his reason, said:

"Oh, the church has got more money than I have; that's all."

He was locked up, charged with burglary.

Baci said he entered the church Thursday afternoon and hid throughout an evening service in the hollow of the statue.

Then he made straight for the poorbox, he said, but when he found an iron casing under the wooden sheeting covering it, he gave up trying to break into it, but he had succeeded in getting off the burglar alarm in the rectory next door with which the box was connected.

In Any Case It Was the Cat.

Two Columbia students rooming together cook some of their meals themselves and take turns in doing the marketing. One of them brought home two chops the other night, intending them for breakfast. Some time in the night a cat stole one of the chops. This brought about the first quarrel that had arisen between the young men. They could not decide the question "Whose chop did the cat eat?"

Hanging Scaffolds.

With the modern skyscraping office building has come a new form of building scaffold. Instead of constructing the scaffold from below, which is impossible in the cases of buildings ranging from 10 to 50 stories high, platforms are suspended from the steel girders above. On these swinging platforms the bricklayers work and the scaffold is raised as the work progresses.—System.

GILLETTE WINS APPEAL

Jury's Verdict in Insurance Scandal Is Set Aside.

New York, June 6.—The verdict of the jury in the supreme court, through which Walter R. Gillette, former vice president of the Mutual Life Insurance Co., was sentenced to six months in Blackwell's island for perjury in connection with the insurance scandal, was set aside yesterday by the appellate division of the supreme court.

Gillette, who was sentenced Oct. 27, last, and remained only three days in the tombs, when he was set free under $15,000 bail, will now, it is said, ask that the bail bond be discontinued.

Gillette was specifically charged with having given false testimony on May 24, 1906. He declared at that time that a fund of $5,000 in the Dobbs Ferry bank was part of the famous "Yellow Dog" fund under control of Andrew Field, and really belonged to the Mutual Life.

GORE SEES WIFE AT LAST

OKLAHOMA SENATOR, BLIND 25 YEARS, GETS A GLIMPSE OF HIS INFANT.

JOY MAY HAVE RETARDING EFFECT

One Eye Responds to Treatment, and Operation It Is Confidently Hoped, Will Restore the Sight Entirely.

Washington, June 6.—Senator Thomas P. Gore, of Oklahoma, may return to his home within a few weeks with the sight of one eye fully restored. It was told in Washington last night that the senator's left eye has already responded to the treatment of eminent occulists to such an extent that he saw his wife and baby for the first time.

The surgeons at the Episcopal Eye and Ear hospital refuse to affirm or deny the statement that the senator has recovered the sight of this eye, preferring to await the result of an operation, which is to take place within a week or ten days.

Mrs. Gore has left her apartments in Congress Hall hotel and taken up her abode in a quiet place near the hospital, which is unknown to her friends. It was impossible, therefore, to find her last night.

The real test at the hospital was to discover whether or not the senator's eye was entirely gone, and it was determined that if it responded at all to treatment an operation would be performed.

Since the eye has shown that sight is still there, there is much hope for a successful operation.

The senator's friends who have learned of his condition are jubilant.

An effort is being made at the hospital to keep the senator as quiet as possible, lest the joy and excitement over the impending recovery of his sight have a retarding effect upon him.

He was in the best of spirits, although under the nerve-racking suspense of waiting three or four days longer to learn whether there is a chance of the blindness of twenty-five years being overcome.

The senator entered the hospital Tuesday by advice of Dr. W. H. Wilmer, who believes there is a possibility of restoring at least one of Mr. Gore's eyes. A week or ten days ought to tell the story, and if the nerve has responded by that time an operation will be performed to remove the film and allow the light to enter. It is too much to say that he is really hopeful.

"I do not let myself hope very much," the senator said, "for fear of disappointment. I am here to do simply what the doctor says and to wait for results. Meanwhile I am reading the newspapers—I mean my wife is reading them to me, for, you see, she is my eyes."

A SECOND SOCIAL EVENT

IT WILL BE GIVEN BY THE COUNTRY CLUB FRIDAY EVENING, JUNE 12.

TO BE HELD ON GOLF CLUB GROUNDS

There Will Be a Basket Picnic, Followed by Dancing, and a Truly Delightful Time Is Assured All Attendants.

On next Friday evening, June 12, the second social event of the Country club will be held.

This function will be a basket picnic, which will be held on the new golf grounds, beginning at 6 o'clock in the evening.

As the moon will be full, the members can protract the affair till late in the evening, if desired.

Music will be furnished and dancing will begin at the club house in the ball room about 9 o'clock.

There are over 150 trees on the new grounds and about two dozen groves. The rule of first come first served will be observed, and the first arrivals can pre-empt a tree or grove by the deposit of their baskets.

The grass in the groves is being mowed and a number of new lawn benches have been distributed over the grounds.

Ice can be purchased at the club house, and the fine well on the northeast part of the grounds will afford an ample supply of excellent water. Families are expected to picnic or group together. This affair will become a continuous fixture, and will be repeated later in the season. The full membership of 200 is expected to be present, together with out-of-town guests, which the members have the privilege of inviting. The entrance gate on the north will be unlocked, and parties will be permitted to drive into the grounds by staying carefully on the roadway and off the greens, under the direction of Minor Reid, the greensman of the club.

And Monday she can buy the choicest silks in our entire stock AT LESS THAN PRODUCERS' COST.

The silks in this sale include all small lots of the best selling patterns this pre-eminent silk store has shown. By small lots we do not mean remnants, but practically every piece is in either a waist or dress length, and in some instances even longer. Nearly any woman in this vicinity can tell you of the supremacy of our silk stock, which is easily comparable to those of the large cities in point of variety and splendor.

We've Divided the Silks Into FOUR BIG LOTS, AS FOLLOWS:

A Great Display of Which Is Now Shown In Our South Window.

59c Fancy Silks 39c yd

In this lot you will find fancy striped silks, also many silks with neat checks and figures. A silk dress for the price of a wash dress. Think of it! Big range of colors, both light and dark..... 39c

75c & 85c Fancy Silks 45c

Fancy taffeta silks, also satin finished silks; in this offering you will find an endless variety of different new style effects, in rich colorings; silks up to 27 inches wide; regular 75c and 85c values.... 45c

$1.00 Fancy Silks, 69c

In this assemblage you will find the very silks at a dollar upon which we centralize our efforts in silk selling. No store hereabouts presents an equal display or such grand values at a dollar. In this sale you buy the silks which others have paid a dollar a yard for—and then secured exceptional values—for 69c yard. Light and dark colorings, in newest weaves and patterns..... 69c

$1.25 Fancy Silks 89c yd.

These silks will illustrate stronger than any other lot the rich tones and weaves of our $1.25 silks. They are wide, practically all of them ranging from 24 to 27 inches wide. The designs and colorings are distinctive and in a class by themselves. We doubt if better values were ever extended to you than in this lot..... 89c

7½c BEST QUALITY CALICO—Calico prices took a tumble HERE some time ago. It's natural that they should be here "first." Here you can buy all you want of the best calico in existence, in choicest designs, at the lowest price in the city. Yard.... 4½c

MRS. LEMP TO LEAVE CITY

MAY GET PERMISSION TO TAKE HER SON TO WISCONSIN FOR SUMMER.

DIVORCE TRIAL IN SEPTEMBER

Court to Pass on Question of Father Seeing Child Before Mother Departs for the Hot Weather Outing.

St. Louis, Mo., June 6.—Mrs. Lillian Handlan Lemp, who is suing her husband for divorce, will get permission from Judge Kinsey Monday to take her son to the summer home of her father, A. H. Handlan, at Oconomowoc, Wis., under an order of court that she return the child to to St. Louis jurisdiction in time for the trial of the suit, which is to be set for next September. Judge Kinsey will announce later when and how the father may see his son.

The question of the custody of the son occupied about an hour of Judge Kinsey's time yesterday. Neither of the principals were in court, but A. H. Handlan, who represented his daughter, was there, and all the lawyers on both sides were present.

Mrs. Lemp, by attorney, told the court that she wished to spend the summer at her father's home and that she wished to take her son with her. Lemp's lawyers warned the court that if the child was taken out of the jurisdiction of the court it might be difficult to bring it back into the jurisdiction. They stipulated that if Mrs. Lemp took the child to Oconomowoc, she give assurance that the child should be brought back and further that Lemp should be permitted to see the child. They asked that once every two weeks, on Friday morning, the child be sent to the home of Lemp's sister, Mrs. Pabst, in Milwaukee, which is thirty-three miles from Oconomowoc. They asked that the child remain there until Saturday evening, in order that its father, its aunt and its cousins might become acquainted with it.

Judge Dillon, representng Mrs. Lemp, strenuously opposed the plan. He stated that since the child was born it had never spent the night away from its mother. He declared that Lemp could come up to Oconomowoc, if he wished to see it.

Attorney Lehmann, representing Lemp, pointed out to Judge Kinsey that to supply the court with information on which to pass on the custody of the child pending the suit would require the introduction of almost as much testimony as would be required for the final adjudication of the suit, and he asked that the court, instead of spending time in taking testimony on the custody of the child, set an early date for trial. Judge Kinsey stated he would set the case for trial the middle or the end of September.

Awful Example of J. Kohler.

Never was a man confronted with such a weakness as Joe Kohler of New York. He is now in Sing Sing for six years and six months and from Joe's own account he ought to be mighty thankful for it. Every time Joe gets drunk he gets married. He's been drunk four times in the last two years and each time some female landed him high and dry. Not only matrimony stared Joe in the face but what was almost as bad, he was rounded up for bigamy and four of the products of his sprees in the shape of wives came into court to testify against him. He threw up his hands and admitted he was stung. He told the court that his drinking habits were responsible. The court sent Joe to Sing Sing where whisky and women will not bother him for 4½ years.

ADMIRES NERVE OF FAIR SEX.

Masculine Observer Concedes Their Superiority in One Respect.

"The time I most admire a woman," said the gray-headed man, "is when she tries to get a bill changed. I admire her then for her splendid courage. Give a woman a ten-dollar bill that she wants changed and she will walk unconcernedly into any shop in town and request the proprietor to give her two fives or ten ones or whatever denomination she happens to need. She never offers to buy anything to compensate him for his trouble. I have known my wife to get change from a grocer, a butcher, a druggist, a stationer, a cigar dealer and a florist without spending one cent in their stores. And all those tradesmen were perfect strangers. She simply wanted change and walked in and asked for it.

"Contrast her calm serenity with the dishrag will of the average man in need of change. He would rather be shot than just ask for it. He will buy something as an excuse for the transaction, even if it is something that he couldn't make use of this side of doomsday and that he has to throw away the minute he turns the corner. In the matter of economy alone it is a pity he can't be as brave as a woman."

DID SHE BURN HIM ALIVE?

THIS IS THE CHARGE AGAINST MRS. MADELINE KING, OF SEATTLE.

THE CRIME A MOST HORRIBLE ONE

Police Believe Woman Bound Her Husband in a Chair and Then Cremated Him—Defendant Declines to Talk.

Seattle, Wash., June 6.—Maddened by a hatred as intense and consuming as the love most good women bear their husbands, Mrs. Madeline King, an aged woman, finding her husband stupefied drunk, bound him in a chair and burned him alive.

This is the belief of Seattle and Kitsap county officers now engaged in trying to unravel a satisfactory solution of this the most revolting murder in the criminal annals of the Pacific northwest. The crime was committed on a timber farm near Oala, Kitsap county, where the aged couple had lived for forty years.

The alleged murderess is now an inmate of the King county jail, having been transferred from the Port Orchard prison to Seattel.

The couple came from France and have two children, Charles King, and a daughter, Mrs. Annie Fisher, of West Seattle.

The latter, displaying the deepest affection for her mother, claims Mrs. King is insane, but this the authorities scout. They regard her as possessed of a low and fiendish cnnning.

Taking refuge behind the "My lawyer told me not to discuss the case with any one," Mrs. King at first maintained a discreet silence.

"He's dead; let him rest," she finally burst forth.

"The sight of his body maddened me," she continued. "I thought of the thirty years of his abuse of me. I could not stand it. When I saw his body lying dead before me I thought of all the mea nthings he had done and the way in which I had been treated, and I got the wheelbarrow, loaded him in it and went outside and kindled a fire over the body. I had five gallons of coal oil which we used in our incubator, and I used this to keep the fire going. I guess I burned about a third of a cord of stove wood.

"After I had burned the body for a time I broke up the bones with a grubbing hoe and kept raking the bones and coals to the center of the pile until everything I could burn up was gone. Then I scattered some of the scraps around the fruit trees.

"No, I did not kill him, but I burned his body and buried his bones; he's no more."

THIS SUM DOESN'T COVER SHORTAGE

Jacksonville, Florida, Electric Co. Benefited by the Conversion of a Former Employe Who Heard Evangelist.

Jacksonville, Fla., June 5.—Conversion to Christianity has led a former conductor on the cars of the Jacksonville Electric Co. to send to Manager Hardy Croom checks for a total of $445, a partial restitution for the amount stolen by him while serving as a conductor for the company.

"This is not all that I took," he says in the letter, "but it is all the money I have now."

The former conductor, after leaving the employ of the company, went into other sections, and had been practically forgotten by the officials of the company, save for the fact that his record was on file with them, in case it was needed for any future reference.

In his new home he chanced to drop in on a revival meeting, being conducted by an evangelist of recognized power.

The sermon reached the man's heart, and he was converted, and then as he started upon his new life, came the desire to atone, so far as was possible for his sins.

Utica, N. Y., June 6.—Charles Richards, whose height is 7 feet 2 inches, and Miss Emma Cristman, scarcely 5 feet high, both of East Herkimer, have gone to the Adirondacks on a honeymoon trip following their runaway marriage.

The bride's mother violently opposed her marrying Richards and when he called at the home of the young woman to escort her to church her mother threw cold water on him. When that did not deter him she threw hot water.

But love will find a way and Richards signaled his sweetheart to jump from an upper story window while her mother and her brother were guarding the doors of the house to prevent her leaving.

Gallant Charles awaited his beloved and when she leaped he caught her with all the grace characteristic of his stature. Forthwith they went to the parson's and were joined in wedlock. Then they dispatched a policeman to the bride's home for her trousseau.

HAD WE NO ELECTRICITY?

DID YOU EVER STOP TO THINK WHAT THAT WOULD MEAN FOR ENTIRE PEOPLE.

'TIS TRULY ALMOST BEYOND BELIEF

It is Only When the "Juice" is Out That We Realize to Full Extent What a Inconvenience We Are Put to.

As a rule, says an exchange, we fail to appreciate fully the daily importance of electricity in this busy world because the subtle current has become so universal and common as to pass almost unnoticed. And, like all things of common good, it is missed only when it is gone.

People use the telephone, the telegraph, ride on the street cars and turn on the electric lights without a thought of the hourly importance of electricity to their comfort and convenience. It is only when the "juice" is gone and the lights refuse to burn, the cars do not run and the wires are carrying no messages, that we realize what a gift is that greatest of nature's treasury—electricity.

Suppose by some great catastrophy of nature all electricity should cease some night at the mystic hour of 12, that the giant water wheels and steam engines would continue to whirl the huge generators but not an ampere of electricity would flow along them miles and miles of transmission wires.

Just suppose such a thing to be.

Your efforts to turn on the electric lights in the morning would be a dark and dismal failure. You would wait in vain for a street car to take you to the office. A hasty walk would take you over to your friend Brown's, but his electric door bell would not ring. By pounding on the door you finally summon him and ask to be taken down town in his auto. He is perfectly willing but the machine cannot be budged, because the igniter, which depends upon an electric spark, will not work.

Then you try to telephone in to explain your delay, but to your astonishment even this will not respond. A cab, summoned by a small boy, takes you slowly down town and leaves you in front of the tall office building in a mob of people jostling each other as they hurry to their work—all of them late.

The motor-driven elevator is idle. After climbing several flights of stairs you never knew existed you enter your office and throw open all the windows, for the electric ventilating fans are not running. An effort to start the desk fan is also fruitless. Your urgent telegrams come back with the explanation that the wires are "down."

After all the important letters are written you learn that the steam trains are not running. This puzzles you not a little until you find out that the complicated electric signals are not working and without them it is unsafe to run a single train along the tracks.

A riot starts in the street, but the police cannot be called from the patrol box A fire breaks out a few blocks away, but the fire department does not respond until a messenger has driven in haste to the nearest fire station and told them of the disaster. No police or fire electrically-operated alarms are workin in the city.

Industry after industry would be without power and thousands would be thrown out of employment. The dentist could not fill teeth; the physicians could not use the X-ray or other electrical apparatus.

The compass could not work and it would be impossible to sail the seas.

All communications from place to place and from nation to nation would cease.

The daily news service would stop.

Electricity is so identified with every industry and the preparation of every product that the prices of nearly everything to eat, read or use would be seriously advanced.

Nearly all water power developments would be worthless, incurring a loss of billions. Coal would advance a hundred per cent in price. Steam enines would be the only form of power available for large industries and the cost of everything would go up accordingly.

The city streets would be in total darkness every night until oil and gas lamps could be substituted.

GOULD LINES STAND PAT

SAY THEY HAVE BROKEN NO CONTRACT WITH CARMEN ON STRIKE.

WILL IGNORE THE STATE BOARD

Recommendations Were That Doors Should Be Opened and Men Return to Work as Soon as Possible.

St. Louis, Mo., June 6.—Contending that no contracts have been violated between the striking carmen and Missouri Pacific and Iron Mountain railroads with reference to the establishment of the piece system, the management of that system indicated last night that it would disregard the recommendations of the state board of mediation and arbitration, which was called in as a mediator.

The board held its sessions at the Laclede hotel, and gave out its recommendations yesterday afternoon. The contention of the carmen is that the Gould lines have violated an agreement with them by attempting to establish a system of piece work.

The board, composed of Ford A. Allen, W. P. Stapleton and Jaseph Pope, recomended:

"1. That in order to re-establish amicable relations between employer and employe, the employers should reopen their shops to the employes under the contract or agreement heretofore in force; the officers of the Brotherhood of Railway Carmen of America should thereupon call off this strike, and the members of the unions should apply for their former positions and should be returned to work by the company without prejudice, as rapidly as conditions will permit.

"2. That the individual contracts now in existence for repair work to be done by private contractors for said companies in certain shops owned by said companies should be terminated as speedily as possible, so that the conditions recommended above may be restored.

"3. Should either the companies or the men desire to establish any rules or conditions not provided for by the agreement heretofore governing the operation of any shops involved in this controversy, such changes or modifications should be put into effect under the provisions of rule 15, without the intervention of any third party."

The Missouri Pacific management, when attention was called last night to the report of the state board of mediation on the carmen's controversy with reference to piece work, stated that no contract with the employes had been violated by the company. The management simply reaffirmed its position and there was nothing more to be said.

The recommendations of the board met with the approval of Frank L. Ronemus, grand chief carman, and members of the joint protective board who were here.

Sea Snakes Hard to Get.

Collecting sea snakes for the scientific institutions is a difficult process. If the collector is to obtain anything like a fair proportion of the 50 odd species he must cruise through Malayan seas in a small boat and be ever on the watch. The only way to obtain a series of the species is to shoot them. Sea snakes come regularly to the surface for air, but the collector is lucky if he gets one out of every ten snakes he sees.

RUMBLINGS OF THE RAIL

THE MISSOURI PACIFIC RAILROAD COMPANY PASSED UP DIVIDEND.

COACH, CAB AND CABOOSE ITEMS

Matters of Interest Picked Up From Various Sources for the Benefit of Democrat-Sentinel Readers.

The directors of the Missouri Pacific Co., at their regular meeting in New York Friday, did not declare the customary dividend.

In announcing their failure to declare a dividend, the board of directors said they thought it conservative policy not to declare a dividend at this time, although they said the earnings should justify continuing the payment of dividends on a 4 per cent basis.

The Missouri Pacific paid dividends of 5 per cent annually from 1903 to 1907. Its authorized capital stock is $100,000,000, of which amount there is outstanding $79,764,000.

In January last the directors declared a semi-annual dividend of 2½ per cent, payable in stock. On that occasion President Gould announced that existing business and financial conditions were such as to make it injurious to weaken the company's resources by dispersing cash in dividends.

Missouri Pacific stock was conspicuously weak in the late transactions on the stock exchange Friday, although the news that the dividend had been omitted did not become public until the close of the market. The stock, which sold as high as 50¾, closed at 49, the low price of the day.

All Are Back to Work.

W. B. Mallette, Missouri Pacific store keeper at Atchison, Kas., was a business visitor here Friday and returned home Saturday morning.

Mr. Mallette is authority for the statement that every carman employed by the company in that city has returned to work, in spite of the order for the men to strike.

Locomotive Engineers Adjourn.

The eighth biennial convention of the Brotherhood of Locomotive Engineers closed at Columbus, O., Friday afternoon, after an exemplification of ritualistic work, followng the report of the committee on work. The work was conducted behind barred doors.

Gets $17,000 for Loss of Foot.

A jury gave Charles Davis, switchman of the Big Four road, $17,000 for the loss of a foot, due to a faulty car coupling, when it came into court at Terre Haute, Ind., Friday afternoon, after a red-hot trial.

Automatic Couplers.

J. J. Betts, a Missouri Pacific conductor, will move his family from 919 East Fifth street to Jefferson City the early part of this week.

W. F. Hausgen, supervisor of bridges and buildings for the Missouri Pacific, returned Saturday from a business visit east of here.

J. C. Dodson, section foreman for the M., K. & T. at Parsons, was brought to the company hospital on No. 6 this morning, with a fractured leg.

H. J. Brummerhofl, a Missouri Pacific conductor, and Hal Martin, a brakeman, came down from Kansas City last night, "deadheading" here on No. 38.

Stock business on the Katy has been materially diminished during the last few days, due to the washing away of the Red river bridge north of Denison, Texas.

M., K. & T. train No. 2, due here at 8:25 a. m., arrived three hours late Saturday, due to high water. Katy flyer No. 6, due here at 12:35 a. m., arrived at 2:20 a. m. Saturday.

Flaw in Sound Advice.

It has been said that we make a mistake in prescribing special hours for going to bed and getting up, and it would be a better way to follow the example of the dog and take an occasional nap when we have nothing better to do. Lovely. But how about "the eternal buttoning and unbuttoning," and the making of toilets, from which his dogship is immune, save in high-bred circles?

FIRST BLOOD FOR TAFT

Gets the Alabama Delegation and Two From Arkansas.

Chicago, Ill., June 5.—Decisions by the republican national committee in contested cases from Alabama and Arkansas have added twenty-four Taft votes to the number he already has instructed for him.

In Alabama what is popularly known as the Thompson delegation was seated, carrying with it twenty-two instructed votes for Taft.

In Arkansas the Bratton delegation from the Fifth district, the only one contested from the state, was seated.

With the victory of the Taft following, the stock of Mr. Hitchcock, the eastern manager for Mr. Taft, as chairman of the republican national committee, has taken a decided rise.

TEN YEARS EACH IN PRISON

Crooked Bankers in Pennsylvania Get Their Deserts.

Pittsburg, Pa., June 6.—For the embezzlement of $1,105,000 from the Farmers' Deposit National bank, Perry Reiber and John Young, the former paying teller and auditor, were sentenced today to serve ten years each in the penitentiary.

Present Appreciation.

We ought daily or weekly to dedicate a little time to the reckoning up of the virtues of our belongings—wife, children, friends—contemplating them, then, in a beautiful collection. And we should do so now, that we may not pardon and love in vain and too late, after the beloved one has been taken away from us to a better world.—Jean Paul Richter.

WILL REMODEL THE BANK

THE THIRD NATIONAL TO BE REMODELED IN THE IMMEDIATE FUTURE.

WILL EXPEND QUITE A LARGE SUM

When Completed President Harris and Cashier Latimer Will Have One of Finest Banking Houses in Interior Missouri.

The directors of the Third National bank, southeast corner of Third and Ohio avenue, have accepted plans for an entire remodeling of the building occupied by the institution, and tomorrow will let to local contractors the contract for doing the work, which will be begun at once. H. W. Harris is president of the bank, W. A. Latimer is the cashier and Charles B. Wallace is assistant cashier.

The improvements will necessitate the expenditure of a large sum of money, and when completed the Third National will occupy one of the best equipped and most up-to-date banking buildings in this section of the country.

The general interior of the building will be altered, and the lobby changed from the south to the north side of the building, to convenience the patrons of the institution.

White tiling will be used in constructing the floor, while the ceiling will be of steel. Fourteen feet of additional office room will thus be secured by reason of the change, while the space for patrons will also be enlarged.

White Venetian marble will be utilized as a foundation for the marble railing and will extend to a height of four and one-half feet from the floor, a noticeable distance above the counters.

Black Vermont marble will be used at the base of the railing to add to its neatness. The grill work or bars at the top of the railing will be of black enamel, on nickel, and will be of square design instead of round. All of the woodwork will be of mahogany.

The directors' room in the rear of the bank will be elegantly equipped, and there will be a new vault, constructed of reinforced concrete, burglar proof, with triple lock and double combination, the vault having a 12,000 pound door.

Four large plate glass windows, two being 12x9 and two 8x9, will be located in the north wall of the building and the front door and windows will be appropriately ornamented.

The plans as accepted by the bank directors call for a thorough alteration of the structure, and, as stated, when completed the institution will have one of the most perfectly equipped buildings in interior Missouri.

The total capital and surplus of the Third National is $145,000, and the directors are as follows: D. H. Smith, S. C. Gold, C. W. McAninch, J. T. Montgomery, J. N. Dalby, J. H. Mertz, W. A. Latimer and H. W. Harris.

MILK WAS POISONED

Farmer's Two Daughters Also Ill From Same Cause.

Columbia, Mo., June 6.—Milk poisoning is thought to have killed George Taylor, a Boone county farmer, as his home between Rocheport and Huntsdale.

He was in excellent health until just before his death. His two daughters are also critically ill.

All three members of the family who were taken sick at the same time had been drinking milk. It is thought the cows ate some poisonous weed.

Long Ways Around In Scotland.

Scotland possesses several other railway anomalies, of which probably the most notable is that of the stations of Mallaig and Kyle, of Lochalsh, which, though only 20 miles apart in a straight line, are separated by no less than 360 miles of rail by the shortest route, viz., Crianlarich, Balquhidder, Perth and Inverness. Yet another Scotch incongruity is that the nearest railway station to the town of Port Ellen, on the Island of Isley, if we except the small local line at Campbelltown, is Ballycastle, in Ireland.—London Globe.

Danger in Continuous Crops.

The growth of a number of successive crops of the same plant has been lately found not only to exhaust the soil for that plant, but to develop an active poison for it. Steam distillation of a wheat-sick soil yielded a crystalline substance that is toxic to wheat, and from a soil exhausted for cowpeas a crystalline substance was obtained that is toxic to cowpeas but not to wheat.
